Red China Tanks Mass For India Armored Battle

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prospects developed Friday night for an armored battle in the Ladakh sector of the Himalayan front. Both Communist Chinese and Indians were reported moving up tanks to bolster forces massing around the strategic Indian airfield at Chushul.

Informed sources said India flew light tanks to its mountain airstrip 14,230 feet up in the Himalayas to counter Communist tanks menacing the vital supply base.

The Red tanks were seen near Spanggur Lake, only a few miles from Chushul, a Defense Ministry spokesman said.

BUILDUP IN AREA

The Communist buildup in the contested area of the 2,500-mile frontier is based at Rudok, a 14,500-foot high plateau in western Tibet.

The area is bleak, brown and fairly flat. From the air the roads across it resemble merely tracks in mountain wastes.

U.S. Naval Chief Gives Bare Details

NEW YORK (UPI) — Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., chief of naval operations said Friday night the Navy detected and tracked Russian submarines in the Caribbean and Atlantic during the Cuban crisis.

Some came to the surface after long surveillance, he said.

FIRST DETAILS

In a speech to the New York Council of the Navy League, Anderson for the first time disclosed bare details of the submarine tracking operations. These went on during the armed forces alert ordered throughout the world during the crisis.

"The presence of Russian submarines in Caribbean and Atlantic waters provided perhaps the finest opportunity since World War II for our anti-submarine warfare forces to exercise their trade, to perfect their skills and to manifest their capability to detect and follow submarines of another nation," he said.

The admiral added: "Some of these submarines that they detected did — after long periods of surveillance — come to the surface."

He did not reveal whether there was communication between U.S. forces and the Soviet subs. He also did not say whether the Russian submarines that surfaced did so on U. S. Navy orders.

At the start of the Cuban blockade, the Pentagon announced the procedures which would be used to make Soviet submarines come to the surface if they entered the blockade area.

Anderson was the first member of the U. S. military high command to make a public statement on the Cuban crisis.

He praised the leaders and men of all the forces for a "star performance" in planning and carrying out "highly sensitive operations with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of difficulty."

Citizens May Buy Mayor Limousine

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Is it fitting for Mayor James H. J. Tate to go riding about in a low-priced automobile? Or should he use something more dignified — like a seven-passenger black limousine?

A group of local businessmen posed that question to the City Council on Friday—and offered to buy Tate the limousine if the council couldn't see it's way clear to provide him one itself.

Daniel M. Tabas, president of the Acorn Iron & Supply Co., is heading the business group. He said he has seen both Mayor Tate and Tate's predecessor, Richardson Dilworth, arrive at many social and ceremonial functions in a small automobile—"a type that doesn't reflect the true image of the city."

City Council President Paul d'Ortona, a Democrat like Tate and Dilworth, said he certainly wasn't going to recommend the council buy Tate a limousine.

"Let them buy it," he said. "Who am I to tell the mayor he can't ride around in a little car if he wants to?"

A spokesman for Mayor Tate said the mayor—like other city officials — belongs to the city car pool. Whenever he needs official transportation he calls the car pool, and whatever car is available is sent around to him—whether it's a compact or a 10-year-old sedan.

For really important occasions, the spokesman said, the city rents a limousine for the mayor.

Would the mayor's office accept such a gift as the limousine?

"That would have to be taken up with the Public Porperty Department, they handle such matters," replied the spokesman.

Navy Sets Up Inter-American Cuba Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy disclosed Friday it has set up an "inter American quarantine force" of warships from the United States, Argentina and the Dominican Republic to assist in policing the flow of shipping into Cuba.

The creation of the new force, under U.S. Rear Adm. John A. Tyree, came to light with an announcement that two Dominican Republic navy frigates are on patrol as part of the blockade designed to keep offensive weapons out of Cuba.

Two Argentine destroyers are believed to have arrived in Trinidad to take part in the blockade.

The inter-American quarantine force, designated Task Force 137, operates separately from the U.S. main blockading fleet, Task Force 136.

The Defense Department declined to comment on whether other American nations will send vessels to take part in the blockade under Tyree's command.

Red China Tanks Mass For India Armored Battle

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prospects developed Friday night for an armored battle in the Ladakh sector of the Himalayan front. Both Communist Chinese and Indians were reported moving up tanks to bolster forces massing around the strategic Indian airfield at Chushul.

Informed sources said India flew light tanks to its mountain airstrip 14,230 feet up in the Himalayas to counter Communist tanks menacing the vital supply base.

The Red tanks were seen near Spanggur Lake, only a few miles from Chushul, a Defense Ministry spokesman said.

BUILDUP IN AREA

The Communist buildup in this disputed area of the 2,500-mile frontier is based at Rudok, a 14,940-foot high plateau in western Tibet.

The area is bleak, brown and fairly flat. From the air the roads across it resemble merely tracks in mountain wastes.

Military observers said it looks like good tank country—in contrast to the steep mountains and rocky valleys of most of Ladakh.

In surging swiftly toward Chushul after launching their offensive Oct. 20, the Red Chinese easily overran an Indian outpost nearby at Pangong Lake with tanks against defenders armed with outmoded rifles.

The Reds halted their drive, but continued to bring up reinforcements. During the breather over the last 10 days on this front, the Indians rushed up regulars to make their first real determined stand.

Elsewhere, little activity was reported, with only occasional outbursts of shooting.

A defense spokesman said Indians shelled Red Chinese positions at Jang, near the Red-held monastery town of Towang, on the western tip of the North East Frontier Agency.

Indian patrols went out near Walong on the eastern end of the frontier, where Communist probing attacks were beaten back Thursday. The patrols failed to make contact with the enemy.

Walong is one of the few heavily defended natural barriers in the area. Capture of Walong would open the way for the Communists to strike into the Lohit River valley toward the Digboi oil fields in the south.

Yemen Chief Threatens To Attack Aden

Accuses Britain Of Plot Against His New Regime

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Yemen's President Abdullah Sallal accused Britain on Friday of plotting against his 41-day-old republic and threatened to attack the neighboring British colony of Aden.

In a speech broadcast by Sana radio, Sallal called on Arabs in the British colony and protectorates in southern Arabia "to be ready for revolution and for battles we shall wage against colonialism."

VOICES BOASTS

Sallal asserted, "Our republican revolution caused Britain to tremble."

Sallal said Britain had sent infiltrators from the colony and the Aden protectorates into Yemen to fight alongside royalists trying to reinstate King Mohammad Al-Badr. But, Sallal said, "We have crushed them all and shattered them."

The republican regime also contends the sherif of Beihan, a British protectorate southeast of Yemen, has sent the royalists British arms. The regime claimed a new military victory over a royalist force it said had set out from the Marib area near Beihan toward the eastern Sarwah fortress 80 miles from Sana.

The kings of Yemen long had laid claim to Aden and other British protectorates on her southern and southeastern borders. But the Yemeni Republic had said nothing about this.

Sallal, calling Britain "the eclipsed empire," said the British "must know we have great forces ready to fight on our side when we ask them." He identified only President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic as among Yemen's allies, however.

Meanwhile, a government delegation from Yemen arrived by airplane in Moscow and was met by a Soviet delegation. There was no announcement of the trip's purpose. However, the army which overthrew Badr in September was equipped mainly with Soviet arms.

Pilot Luckily Survives X15 Plane Crash

Father Of Seven Is Pinned Inside As Craft Flips

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI) — The X15 rocket plane crashed in an emergency landing Friday, but test pilot John McKay escaped serious injury in a courageous gamble to "ride" the craft down despite obvious mechanical trouble.

"I feel great, just great, said McKay when he was flown here by helicopter from the crash scene at Mud Lake, Nev. The 39-year-old father of seven apparently suffered only minor injuries and was walking on his own power—in the hospital—within two hours after the crash.

TIRE BLOWS

McKay had a dramatic reunion with his twin brother, Jim, at the base hospital. Jim is an engineer for the national space agency.

In the worst accident in the 74-flight history of the X15, the black, stubbed wing craft blew a tire on landing, causing the dual nose wheel to collapse. Then the X15 skidded to the left, flipping over twice before it landed upside down. McKay was pinned inside for five minutes before rescuers could remove him.

The seven-ton craft kicked up a huge cloud of sand and dust when it skidded along the dry lake surface.

The fact that McKay "blew the canopy" — the clam-like glass cover to the pilot's compartment—as the plane landed helped save him, said Air Force Col. David B. O'Hara.

Record holding national space agency pilot Joe Walker was flying one chase plane and directed McKay to the emergency landing, after McKay jettisoned his fuel.

When rescuers reached McKay, he was conscious, but strapped upside down in his seat, unable to free himself. He joked with the rescuers and never lost consciousness.

Cuban Reds Are Accused Of Sabotage

Venezuelan Tells OAS Acts Part Of General Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Venezuela charged Friday that recent acts of sabotage in the Maracaibo oil fields were part of a general plan directed from Cuba.

Nelson Himiob, Venezuelan representative to the Organization of American States, also said the OAS is not complying faithfully with its duty to confront threats of aggression against its member states.

SPECIAL SESSION

Himiob spoke at a special session of the OAS Council.

He said four Communist party members set off dynamite charges at four electric substations at a Maracaibo oil field belonging to Creole Petroleum the night of Oct. 27. He said that this act of sabotage, as well as others, was part of what he called the "Plan Camilo" which he described as a Cuban plan named in honor of Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, a deceased rebel collaborator of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

The Venezuelan delegate said that on Oct. 24 Maracaibo police learned that an unidentified ship navigating waters northeast of Curacao transmitted instructions emanating from Havana to the effect that the time had come to put the Plan Camilo into effect.

Himiob also read what he said was the text of a telegram or cable intercepted by his government Oct. 27.

U.S. Ambassador deLesseps S. Morrison, speaking after Himiob's presentation said the Soviet effort to convert Cuba surreptitiously into a missile base presented the hemisphere with one type of problem.

Morrison said the inter-American system must be as alert and decisive in its response to this second threat as it was to the challenge of the missile bases.

U.S. Checks Missiles On Soviet Ships

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. warships began their at-sea checking of Soviet missiles from Cuba on Friday and reported seeing rockets on the decks of outbound ships which cooperated with the examination.

At the United Nations, a Soviet representative was reported to have given U.S. officials a list of 42 missiles and their supporting equipment and to have said all would be clear of the Communist-ruled island by Monday.

NEAR ESTIMATES

This count was close to an earlier one given by Soviet Premier Khrushchev. The 42 figure is believed also to be somewhere in the area of estimates by U.S. intelligence officials.

Officials here said the report at the United Nations came from Vasily V. Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister and Khrushchev's special representative on Cuba.

In accordance with arrangements made earlier, the naval vessels drew close alongside four Soviet merchantmen early Friday and later reported sighting what appeared to be missiles on the decks of three of them.

Soviet crewmen were said to have pulled back canvases from the bulky deck loads and disclosed to the Navy observers what appeared to be missiles encased in skin-tight waterproof coverings.

Photographs were taken and flown back to the United States for analysis.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester explained to newsmen: "The responsible people of this government are satisfied that what is being reported are the missiles but the final determination will await analysis of the photographs."

SEA CLASHES POSSIBLE

Ship Inspections Banned By Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban officials insist that no Cuban merchant vessels will submit to inspection of any kind, diplomatic sources reported Friday night. The reported Cuban position raised the possibility of U.S. — Cuban confrontations on the high seas.

The diplomatic informants added that Cuban ships were said to have received orders not to stop for inspection no matter what the consequences may be.

No Cuban ocean-going ship was known to be en route to Cuba at this time.

COMPLICATION

The diplomatic informants could not say whether the stated Cuban position was aimed at the U.S.-Soviet agreement in principle to have Red Cross officials inspect Cuba-bound ships for arms. However, it appeared to complicate such a plan.

In negotiations at U.N. headquarters in New York, the Soviet Union has agreed to permit representatives of the International Committee of the Red Cross to board Cuba-bound Soviet ships or ships under Soviet charter to make arms inspections. But presumably permission to board a Cuban ship would have to come from Havana.

U.S. sources at U.N. headquarters have said the United States will insist on inspection of all Cuba-bound ships, including Cuban ships. These sources maintained that should any ships refuse to submit to the Red Cross inspection once the present blockade is lifted, the United States will feel free to take any action Washington believes appropriate.

The present Cuban merchant fleet is made up of a new 6,746-ton freighter completed this year in East Germany and at least a half-dozen smaller ocean-going ships.

Cuban determination to ignore the U.S. quarantine and balk at subsequent Red Cross inspection would be consistent with Prime Minister Fidel Castro's avowed decision not to submit Cuba to inspection of any kind. The Cubans consider their vessels on the high seas national territory, the diplomatic informants said.

Castro had said he did not object to the Red Cross inspection because it took place outside of Cuba, but it appears now he did not include Cuban vessels in this area of agreement.

Fire Destroys Famed Rotunda Tourist Mecca

DEARBORN, Mich (UPI) — One of the nation's 10 most popular tourist attractions, the famed Ford Motor Co. Rotunda, was destroyed by a blaze which raced through the 110-foot structure in a matter of minutes and left only a $15 million hulk.

Hours after the fire had ravaged most of the structure smoke still smoldered from the gaping crater through which the dome plunged less than an hour after the blaze broke out.

Only one injury was reported, however.

The blaze spread from the roof through a false wall. Workmen had been putting tar on the roof at the time the fire broke out.

The dome fell in with a roar that sent smoke soaring and a mass of metal and stone crashing to the inside of the building — carrying with it half of the supporting walls.

Priceless records of the Ford Motor Co. and Ford family were saved, however, by firemen who played water on the north wing containing the archives.

The archives held records of the company dating from its beginning to 1959, according to one Ford spokesman.

U.S. To Track Satellite With Beam Of Light

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plans to track a satellite for the first time by means of a newly developed concentrated beam of light, called a laser, were announced Friday.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the laser technique would be tested as "potentially vastly more accurate than current tracking methods and requiring no electrical power from the satellite."

The laser device, a six-inch rod generating optical signals at the rate of one pulse a second, will be mounted on a tracking telescope at NASA's Wallops Island, Va., station.

Its narrow beam of light, only a sixteenth of a degree in width, will be sent back to earth by an array of glass-like reflectors one inch in diameter, mounted at one end of the satellite.

The reflected signal will be received at Wallops by a device called a photomultiplier, also mounted on the optical recording telescope.

The satellite to be used in the experiment is the S66 polar ionosphere beacon orbiter, to be launched from the Pacific missile range in California early next year. It will be designed to operate in a circular polar orbit, 625 miles above the earth, for at least a year.

Gale Warnings Hoisted Along Atlantic Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy rains soaked Florida and much of the Southeast on Friday as a storm system pushed northward huffing gusty winds ahead of it.

Rainfall amounts of 1½ to 3½ inches were reported in Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas.

Winds reached a 40-mile pace on the North Carolina coast, and gale warnings went up from Cape Hatteras to Cape May, N.J.

The rain belt was expected to envelop much of the Northeast by late Friday night or early Saturday, with an inrush of cooler, drier air ending precipitation in the Southeast.

Occasional rains and cloudiness hit much of the territory east of the Mississippi. To the west, except for the northern Pacific coastal strip, weather was mostly dry and sunny.

PELT HOUSE FOUR MONTHS

'Sky Pebbles' Puzzling

BIG BEAR LAKE, Calif. (AP)—Pebbles from the sky—or some place—have pelted a house without apparent explanation for four months.

Why? Nobody knows, the sheriff's office says.

It was spooky for the W. M. Lowe family. They don't believe in goblins, but on Halloween night they gave up and moved out.

"The rocks were falling from all directions," they reported.

Ever since the Lowes moved into the one-story house in this Southern California mountain resort last June 15: About four times a week—at all hours of day and night—rocks up to four inches long have rained on the house and an area of about two city blocks around. So say sheriff's deputies and Lowe, 44, a former Fullerton, Calif., real estate man.

Sheriff's investigators theorized that somebody had it in for the Lowes, who endured the mysterious barrages for a month before they sought help.

But, say officials, they've found no pebble tossers even though they've been Johnny-on-the-spot when:

A rock dented the hood of a patrol car parked near the house;

A rock whistled past Deputy Jack H. Cox's ear on Halloween night and hit the house.

Two window panes in Lowe's house have been broken, others cracked. Eight windows in a neighboring house were broken. One of the Lowes' five children was bruised by a missile from nowhere.

Sometimes they come from the bright blue sky, says Lowe, sometimes at 4 a.m., noon or midnight.

Sum result of more than a score of trips by eight different men from the San Bernardino sheriff's office: "The sheriff's office is investigating."

The sheriff doesn't believe in goblins either.

Lowe's own theory: "I think it might be the wind blowing off that rocky ridge a tenth of a mile away—the closest hill. I have seen pine needles streaming past at treetop level during the period when rocks fell."

But that didn't stop him from leaving — a move he'd thought about between stone showers for some time. "The house isn't really big enough, anyway, what with five children," he explained.

The story's not complete without this postscript: After the Lowes moved out, three young men employed at a nearby ski lift moved in.

GARRISON, JUDGES

Bar Association Group To Probe Orleans Charges

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The president of the New Orleans Bar Association said Friday the group's executive committee will look into the verbal slugfest raging between District Attorney Jim Garrison and eight state court judges.

A. J. Waechter, president of the association, said the committee will take up the matter of Garrison's charges and the judge's counter-charges at a meeting next week.

Garrison says the judges are hampering his crackdown on vice by withholding funds due his office. He also says the judges take too much time off from the bench.

The judges filed charges of defamation of character against Garrison Thursday. After a furious round of legal maneuvering, Garrison's office finally succeeded in dismissing the charges.

The judges, who preside over the eight state criminal district courts in New Orleans, reportedly were considering asking Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion to oust Garrison and man the office in an emergency step.

But Gremillion, returning to the state from a trip to Washington, said at Baton Rouge he hadn't heard from the judges and knew nothing about the details of the case.

The judges, in their defamation charge, cited newspaper reports quoting Garrison as saying they "made it eloquently clear where their sympathies lie in regard to aggressive vice investigations by refusing to authorize the use of the DA's funds. . ."

Replying in a formal statement, the judges questioned some of Garrison's expenditures in the vice crackdown, saying: "There was no way of knowing who spent what money, for what and where."

Garrison criticized the judges for taking what he estimated at 206 vacation days a year vacation. One of the judges, Shirley G. Wimberly, retorted: "If you count Saturdays and Sundays, and I guess he did, you could say that any working man has a lot of vacation days."

Solon Supports City Bond Issue Of $11,250,000

The City of Monroe's proposed $11,250,000 bond issue, which will be voted on Nov. 20, has been endorsed by Sen. Jamar Adcock.

If approved in the election, the bond issue will finance a capital improvement program including a sewer treatment plant, new city hall, civic center, airport facilities and fire department expansion.

"I have carefully reviewed all five of these projects and I certainly agree that they are all worthy of our consideration and, in fact, a must for the future development of our city," Adcock said in announcing that he "wholeheartedly endorses" the bond issue.

Adcock said that "the actual increase in taxes will be relatively small and I do not see how a growing city such as Monroe can afford not to put this program into effect.

"We the citizens of Monroe are most fortunate to have a mayor and City Council that have proven over the last several years that they are competent of giving our affairs sound business management.

"I have complete confidence in the present city administration's ability to fairly and competently administer this excellent program."

Corps Honored In Twin Cities

Twin City mayors have declared today as Marine Corps Day throughout Monroe and West Monroe, in recognition of the Corps' 187th birthday.

Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard and Mayor J. Allan Norris, in an official proclamation signed Friday, called the Marine Corps "foremost in the defense of the nation" since its founding, and urged residents "to accord the veterans of the Corps and the men and women now serving in it the gratitude of a liberty - loving people."

They closed with an appeal for "Full attendance at our local churches Sunday in memory of the valiant men of the Corps" who died in the country's defense.

Defense Brings Tears At Mercy Slaying Trial

LIEGE, Belgium (UPI) — A lawyer defending the doctor accused of prescribing drugs used by a young mother to kill her thalidomide - deformed infant daughter brought the court to tears Friday.

Hundreds of spectators wept openly when attorney Jacques Henry turned to the doctor, Jacques Casters, and said, "You have acted like a man and I am extremely proud that I may call myself your friend."

Also on trial in the assizes court for the murder of the 7-day-old armless girl are her mother, Mrs. Suzanne Coipel Van de Put, 25, accused of actually giving the baby barbiturates, and Mrs. Van de Put's mother, sister and husband.

A verdict in the five-day-old trial is expected Saturday. If convicted, the five could be sentenced to death by the guillotine but in actual practice death sentences are no longer carried out in Belgium. The minimum penalty is three years in prison.

Henry told the jury in his summation that he had known Dr. Casters for 30 years and had grown up with him.

The defense attorney said Casters had dedicated his life to fighting pain and suffering and that it was a streak of compassion that made Casters prescribe the barbiturates.

"He thought that this little human thing which was condemned at birth could only cause its parents and the people around it great suffering," Henry said. "For Corinne was condemned to a life of eternal loneliness. For her there would never be any happiness."

OUTBOUND FROM CUBA

First Soviet Ship Contact Described

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet skipper clasped his hands over his head like a victorious boxer.

It was all quite friendly, this first known U.S. interception and examination of a Soviet freighter outbound from Cuba with gear and technicians used in building Soviet missile bases there.

The men aboard the Alapayevsk sent up a tie clasp and a bottle of vodka.

The Americans responded in this gift exchange—but what they gave and how the swap was made didn't come out in a report of the incident.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester gave newsmen an account of the meeting, based on a message from the scene.

The first contact with the Soviet merchantman was made Thursday afternoon at 3:45 by a helicopter from the aircraft carrier Wasp. The destroyer Holder came alongside the Soviet cargo ship about dusk.

Word was flashed back to Navy headquarters that no missile components were apparent on the deck of the Soviet vessel.

As the helicopter approached the Alapayevsk, it "spoke" to the ship by blinker light. The communications apparently were somewhat slow, occasionally garbled.

Each side evidently tried to be helpful to the other: the helicopter "talked" in Russian, the ship replied in English.

There was friendly agreement by the Soviet Union not to oppose taking photographs, Sylvester said.

Although it wasn't spelled out, the helicopter apparently hovered close to the freighter's deck.

The Alapayevsk looked to be lightly loaded and on its deck the helicopter crew could see a variety of construction and earth moving gear, as well as perhaps 150 to 200 men who Sylvester said "looked happy to be going home."

Among the gear listed in the report were four fuel trucks — two of them apparently missile oxidizer — as well as five other trucks, many drums and miscellaneous small boxes lashed to the deck.

Street Bills To Be Mailed

Assessment bills for repair work on West Monroe streets will be mailed next week, according to City Clerk Harold Hill.

They will go to residents affected by the repair program who elected to pay their share of the cost in 10 annual installments. Many took the option of paying a lump sum in cash.

Next week's mailing will be the second of the 10 assessments.

Yule Planning Session Is Set In West Monroe

Plans for observance of the Christmas season in West Monroe are expected to get a final push at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Christmas Committee Monday.

The session at 10 a.m. will be directed by Chairman H. R. Parker, who said Friday that all the city's present decorations are installed.

The group still expects to buy an additional $1700 worth of streamers and lights, which will be ordered as soon as the funds are collected from the city's businessmen.

The deadline for contributions is today, with the fund expected to wind up a bit short.

Parker listed among decisions to be made Monday, the date and time for turning on of lights and final details of the Christmas parade Dec. 6.

January Draft Of 4,000 Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army will draft 4,000 men in January, a drop of 2,000 from the December draft, the Pentagon announced Friday.

The January call will raise to 2,777,450 the number of men drafted into the armed forces since the start of the Korean War in 1950.

The Defense Department said that the Army needs 16,000 enlisted men in January, one fourth to be provided by the draft and the remainder by volunteers.

The January call is the same as that for October and November.

FIRE BLASTS AT U.S.

Cuba Tells U.N. Arms Defensive

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cuba told the U.N. General Assembly on Friday it has only defensive weapons intended to protect its people from "U.S. imperialism."

Juan Juarbe, the Cuban delegate, spoke after Ahmad Shukairy of Saudi Arabia accused Britain of placing nuclear weapons in Kenya and Aden. Shukairy added that if there is concern in the United States over such weapons in Cuba, there is justification for similar concern by Asian-African nations over the situation in the two British-ruled territories.

The Cuban delegate said he wanted to stress that his country is not a colony and that its weapons are for Cuba's defense as a "free, sovereign and independent" country.

Juarbe asserted his country possessed weapons that are "anti-colonial, antiimperialistic and defensive," and their target was "the death of U.S. imperialism and colonialism."

There was no word of new U.S.-Soviet negotiations on U.S. demands for removal of Soviet jet bombers from Cuba and adequate verification to assure that no missiles or missile installations remain on Cuban territory.

Two long negotiating sessions this week produced no agreement.

Some diplomats expressed belief a resolution being considered by the assembly's main Political Committee calling for Latin American to be declared a nuclear-free zone might offer a solution to the inspection problem.

The resolution sponsored by Brazil, Chile and Bolivia would have the Latin-American countries negotiate an agreement to keep the continent free of nuclear weapons or rockets capable of delivering them. It would provide for verification arrangements to make sure that the agreement is observed.

In the committee debate, Alex Quaison - Sackey of Ghana declared he would like to see Latin America, the Caribbean and Africa be declared nuclear - free zones.

Cairo Reports Yemen Battle

CAIRO (UPI) — The semi-official Middle East News Agency (MENA) of Egypt claimed Friday Yemeni republican forces have killed 1,000 Saudi Arabians and Jordanians in a battle with pro-monarchist forces in the Yemen.

The battle area was placed near the Saudi Arabian border. Saudi Arabian claims of civilian casualties in the area in air raids were "an attempt to cover up its new aggressive attempts," the news agency said.

The United Arab Republic supports the republican government which overthrew Imam El Badr on Sept. 26.

GARRISON, JUDGES

Bar Association Group To Probe Orleans Charges

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The president of the New Orleans Bar Association said Friday the group's executive committee will look into the verbal slugfest raging between District Attorney Jim Garrison and eight state court judges.

A. J. Waechter, president of the association, said the committee will take up the matter of Garrison's charges and the judge's counter-charges at a meeting next week.

Harrison says the judges are hampering his crackdown on vice by withholding funds due his office. He also says the judges take too much time off from the bench.

The judges filed charges of defamation of character against Garrison Thursday. After a furious round of legal maneuvering, Garrison's office finally succeeded in dismissing the charges.

The judges, who preside over the eight state criminal district courts in New Orleans, reportedly were considering asking Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion to oust Garrison and man the office in an emergency step.

But Gremillion, returning to the state from a trip to Washington, said at Baton Rouge he hadn't heard from the judges and knew nothing about the details of the case.

The judges, in their defamation charge, cited newspaper reports quoting Garrison as saying they "made it eloquently clear where their sympathies lie in regard to aggressive vice investigations by refusing to authorize the use of the DA's funds. . ."

Replying in a formal statement, the judges questioned some of Garrison's expenditures in the vice crackdown, saying: "There was no way of knowing who spent what money, for what and where."

Garrison criticized the judges for taking what he estimated at 206 vacation days a year vacation. One of the judges, Shirley G. Wimberly, retorted: "If you count Saturdays and Sundays, and I guess he did, you could say that any working man has a lot of vacation days."

Solon Supports City Bond Issue Of $11,250,000

The City of Monroe's proposed $11,250,000 bond issue, which will be voted on Nov. 20, has been endorsed by Sen. Jamar Adcock.

If approved in the election, the bond issue will finance a capital improvement program including a sewer treatment plant, new city hall, civic center, airport facilities and fire department expansion.

"I have carefully reviewed all five of these projects and I certainly agree that they are all worthy of our consideration and, in fact, a must for the future development of our city," Adcock said in announcing that he "wholeheartedly endorses" the bond issue.

Adcock said that "the actual increase in taxes will be relatively small and I do not see how a growing city such as Monroe can afford not to put this program into effect.

"We the citizens of Monroe are most fortunate to have a mayor and City Council that have proven over the last several years that they are competent of giving our affairs sound business management.

"I have complete confidence in the present city administration's ability to fairly and competently administer this excellent program."

Corps Honored In Twin Cities

Twin City mayors have declared today as Marine Corps Day throughout Monroe and West Monroe, in recognition of the Corps' 187th birthday.

Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard and Mayor J. Allan Norris, in an official proclamation signed Friday, called the Marine Corps "foremost in the defense of the nation" since its founding, and urged residents "to accord the veterans of the Corps and the men and women now serving in it the gratitude of a liberty - loving people."

They closed with an appeal for "Full attendance at our local churches Sunday in memory of the valiant men of the Corps" who died in the country's defense.

ACCUSED OF SLAYING

British Seeking U.S. Desperado

LONDON (AP)—British police joined the search Friday for one of America's most-wanted fugitives, a man accused of the submachine gun slaying of a New York bank guard during a robbery.

With him, authorities believe, is the 19-year-old girl accused of driving the getaway car in at least one of a series of bank robberies in the United States.

Scotland Yard said the FBI in Washington believed that Bobby Randell Wilcoxson, 33, and possibly Jacqueline Rose had come to Britain.

A companion, Albert Frederick Nussbaum Jr., was seized in Buffalo, N.Y., on Sunday after a 20-minute, high-speed auto chase in the city. He carried two live hand grenades in his pocket, the FBI said, but did not attempt to use them.

Nussbaum, accused of being the brains of what the FBI described as "a vicious gang of bank robbers who were equipped with a large arsenal of high-powered firearms," was on the FBI's list of 10 most wanted men, along with Wilcoxson.

Scotland Yard appealed for information from anyone who might know the whereabouts of Wilcoxson and Miss Rose, but said no member of the public should attempt to detain them.

Holdups laid to the gang include an $18,979 bank robbery on Dec. 5, 1960, and an $87,288 job on Jan. 12, 1961, both in Buffalo; a $20,000 bank robbery in Washington, D.C., on June 30, 1961; and a $34,000 robbery in Brooklyn, N.Y., last Dec. 15.

In the Brooklyn holdup, bank guard Henry Kraus was cut down by a spray of bullets from the submachine gun as he attempted to rise from his chair. The gang escaped in a station wagon equipped with an automatic rifle mounted on a tripod.

Wilcoxson is a native of Duke, Okla., and has lived at Delray Beach, Fla. The brown-haired, 5-foot-9 fugitive has an artificial right eye and scars on his right forearm and left wrist.

Miss Rose, a native of Paoli, Ind., is 5 feet 5, has reddish-brown hair and blue-green eyes. She has been described as attractive and a user of heavy makeup. Third-degree burn scars cover her from neck to waist and both arms from the elbow to the shoulder.

British Find Remains Of Saxon's Hall

LONDON (AP)—No. 10 Downing St., official residence of the British prime minister, contains the remains of a great Saxon hall, archeologists reported Friday. They called it a rare find.

The discovery was made during the present major reconstruction of No. 10 and the neighboring treasury building in Whitehall, London's governmental district.

Traces of a Tudor palace already have been found at the site.

The Saxon hall dating back to the 8th or 9th century was uncovered at a lower level.

H.J.M. Green, of the Works Ministry's Ancient Monuments Section, described the find as a major archeological discovery throwing light on the domestic arrangements of the Saxons.

These fierce blond rovers from the Continent arrived in Britain in considerable numbers after Roman rule ended. The Germanic Saxons drove many of the original Britons, Celtic-speaking people, into Cornwall, Wales and the highlands of Scotland.

Much of the floor of the Saxon hall was found in remarkably good condition. The oak planks and poles varied in color from light brown to black.

The diggers uncovered no remains of roofing material. Outside the north face of the building, however, they found several large stones which may have been used as roof thatch weights.

Green said the hall itself was a rectangular structure 26 feet wide. It has been traced thus far for 21 feet of its length. Around the outside of the building was a series of round posts up to one foot in diameter.

Various domestic utensils were found on the site. Thousands of broken animal bones also were discovered, including both domestic and wild species.

The Saxons often built with wood and most of their timbered structures disappeared centuries ago. To find the remains of such a building with the wood preserved represents a rare piece of luck, the archeologists said.

BUDGET COMMITTEE

Education Board May Ask Ruling

BATON ROUGE (AP) — President William J. Dodd of the Louisiana Board of Education said Friday, a few hours after the legislative budget committee brushed aside board complaints of school interference, "the committee has forced us to ask for a court ruling."

"When the budget committee takes over the administrative duties of educators, it is on very shaky legal grounds and the attorney general has so ruled," Dodd said.

"The committee has forced us to ask for a court ruling in this matter. We cannot sit idly by and see our colleges lose their accreditation and our local elementary and secondary schools starved—and a good system wrecked."

Earlier in the day, the legislative budget committee said in its statement its actions were on "a sound legal ground."

After the committee met in a closed session for two hours with top fiscal officers of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' administration, Sen. W. J. Cleveland of Crowley, committee chairman, issued the committee statement, saying:

"If the critics of this committee expect us to slacken our efforts to maintain fiscal stability, they are sadly mistaken."

The education board a week ago authorized Atty. Gen. Jack Gremillion to take whatever steps were necessary to protect the board's constitutional rights, if the legislative group didn't change its ways by Nov. 15.

The budget committee was created as a permanent legislative watchdog over spending after a record $73 million deficit last fiscal year. The committee has said it holds down spending to keep the current budget balanced this fiscal year.

The committee statement said previous court decisions show legislative acts must be obeyed, unless court rulings hold them unconstitutional.

"We feel we are on sound legal ground," Cleveland said, "and we further feel we are on unshakeable moral ground."

Before the committee met, one of its members, Rep. Vail Delony of East Carroll Parish said he welcomed a court fight if "that's what the education board wants, and to ... with the education board."

The next step apparently was up to the attorney general after the board's Nov. 15 deadline. The possibility of a taxpayer's lawsuit loomed as one means of settling the issue.

The committee made no gesture toward talks with the education board or a compromise settlement.

During the day, state treasurer A. P. Tugwell announced he had mailed checks to parish school boards amounting to $27 million, covering state money due them for September and October.

Tugwell also said he had sent out $1 million a day earlier for school textbooks.

His wife, Evelyn, is spending the nights on a cot at the hospital with him. Who could ask for more support than that?

He expects to be released in about 10 more days, following the standard 21-day post attack waiting period. He's sitting up in bed awhile each day and probably will be moving around the room in a few days.

Two Injured In Mishap; One Charged

Two Monroe residents escaped with only minor injuries and a Hodge man was charged with reckless driving and negligent injury following a three-vehicle accident at the intersection of Louisville Ave. and North 29th Street, about 11 a.m. Friday.

Both Milton B. Davidson, 19, 1610 Sunset Dr., Monroe, and Marvin Wesley Platt, 32, 1400 S. 10th Street, Monroe, were treated and released from St. Francis Hospital.

Monroe police booked the driver of the third vehicle, Thomas Haron Walker, 56, of Hodge, with reckless driving and negligent injury.

According to investigating officers, Walker, traveling north on North 29th St. in a two-ton truck, pulled into Louisville Avenue in the path of a '57 Chevrolet automobile driven by Davidson. Davidson, in an attempt to avoid the truck applied his brakes and his vehicle skidded across the center line and collided with the auto driven east on Louisville by Platt.

Monroe police booked a 41-year-old Negro, M. H. Hoskin, 41, route three box 259, Rayville, under a $500 bond on charges of carrying a dangerous weapon and discharging firearms.

Another Negro, Annie B. Coleman, 56, 119 Hipp Mark Alley, Monroe, was booked under a $500 bond on theft charges.

Ellis James Donald, Negro, 4001 Dunlap St., Monroe, was arrested for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and reckless driving. His bond was set at $455.

A Monroe woman, Opal M. Smith, 21, 7219 DeSiard St., Monroe, was ticketed for reckless driving after she was involved in a two-car collision at the intersection of DeSiard and Chauvin Streets around 5:57 p.m. Driver of the other auto, Lorea W. Goza, 34, 406 Betin St., Monroe, was not charged; there were no injuries and damage was light.

Tax Assessors Seminar Ends At Baton Rouge

BATON ROUGE (AP) — A two-day seminar for Louisiana tax assessors ended here Friday with a decision to hold similar meetings each year.

The last such exchange of ideas by the Louisiana assessors was seven years ago.

Pegram J. Mire of Ascension Parish, the final speaker, suggested the Louisiana Tax Commission should make a study of the problem of assessing rural farm land which has risen sharply in value with the influx of industry.

He said the commission could make recommendations how to make fair decisions on the assessment of such rural-urban property.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

One of the most colorful figures in the history of the United States passed from the scene with the recent death of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Always controversial in her own country and never removed from the limelight, Mrs. Roosevelt may have been the best-known woman in the world with the possible exception of British royalty.

Some regarded Mrs. Roosevelt as an ardent crusader for great causes while others looked on her as a shatterer of honored American tradition and a spoiler of this country's fundamental democracy.

"One of the great ladies in the history of this country has passed from the scene," said President Kennedy in mourning the death of Mrs. Roosevelt. This tribute came despite the fact that Mrs. Roosevelt backed Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination against Kennedy. Views of Mrs. Roosevelt and Stevenson tallied close in the matters of one-worldism and the United Nations.

Mrs. Roosevelt regarded herself as a humanitarian and so did many thousands of others who shared her views. Even those who opposed her and regarded her socialist views as a menace to the democracy of this country and her integration stand as an attempt to break down the natural laws of segregation and as an effort to shatter the nation's most treasured traditions and customs, found her humanitarianism hard to deny.

Further, Mrs. Roosevelt was almost entirely devoid of venom and vituperation. Under some of the strongest personal attacks ever unloosed on anyone in the public eye, she was imperturbable, almost never bothering to answer her critics or to turn on them. She merely went calmly along her course.

Abraham Lincoln was called the emancipator of the Negro slaves and some may regard the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt as the amalgamator of the races in the United States. It is doubtful, however, that any major share of the credit or discredit for bringing about race-mixing should go to Roosevelt. He used it as a vote-getter and set a pattern which many other politicians, including President Kennedy, have followed, but Mrs. Roosevelt was the real crusader and the true believer who set integration into motion.

Always wholly human, Mrs. Roosevelt was never out of place among the lowly nor among the high and mighty. Mentally and socially she was always at least the equal of dignitaries, heads of state, royalty and high churchmen of many nations.

Those who shared her views heralded her as the grand lady of the United States and those who thought she was leading this country into socialism, decay and one-worldism recognized her rare abilities.

The United States is not likely soon to produce another like her.

Moon And Recreation

Many talk about and some bemoan the huge cost of the United States' moon project, in which placing a manned space craft on the moon is one of the principal objectives, but—

A space official said recently the price of one martini per week for each adult in this country would come close to paying for the whole moon project. He added that the nation spends $20 billion a year on recreation.

We must reach the conclusion that the people of this country spend a tremendous amount on recreation or the cost of the moon project is not so exorbitant as it has been pictured to be.

Dr. Edward C. Welch, executive secretary of the National Space Council, made the statement when he spoke at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa.

He said the United States is spending about 40 cents per person per week on its entire program of space exploration. The price, he said, probably will be as high as 75 cents per capita per week.

Commenting on the fact that this country spends more than $20 billion a year on recreation, Welch added, "It can spend $5 or $10 billion a year on space without decreasing the number of yachts or even the number of golf clubs in use."

Spending on space, Welch said, "will make us stronger and wealthier." In a few years, he said, "several million persons will be working in space industries as compared with 800,000 in the automobile industry last year.

It can easily be seen that this might open up industrial prosperity beyond the imagination. We look upon the automobile industry as the backbone of our economy but if space industries so far outdistance the automobile industry our financial and economic horizons will be broadened and extended in proportion to the distance we go in space exploration. That is something that brings the imagination new ecstacies in exercise.

Welch said the United States must develop "space competition" in order to keep space peaceful. Noting Soviet launching successes, he said the United States must not "overlook the blackmail possibilities of the weapons of space."

Aside from protecting ourselves from aggression by other countries that might gain control of space, we know that space development is as natural as growth of any kind, that it vastly increases our economic potential, that it will reduce the joblessness caused by automation to a minimal point and that it will carry man's imagination to new heights and new glories of achievement.

When we think of ourselves now as going into space development we are as surely freeing ourselves as is a baby chick when it breaks the shell of an egg and tumbles out into a world heretofore unseen.

And we can have all this, and yachts and golf clubs too, for those who want them.

Traffic Danger Spot

The recent fatal injury of a five-month-old baby girl in an automobile collision at the intersection o fNew Natchitoches Road and Jewel Street in West Monroe, and the critical or serious injury of four others at the same time, seems to confirm that intersection as a particularly dangerous point. Previously a number of other serious accidents had occurred there.

Although a stop sign requires those entering Jewel Street from Natchitoches Road to halt, the corner may be described as "blind" both ways for those traveling east on Natchitoches Road. To the right the view is blocked by buildings and to the left it is obscured by trees and undergrowth. Even those who stop have difficulty in seeing whether Jewel Street is clear.

For this reason, it has been suggested that a blinker light be placed at the intersection, with the red blinker requiring those on Natchitoches Road to stop and the amber blinker warning those on Jewel Street to proceed with caution. If this would help the situation it would certainly be well worthwhile

Campaign Buttons In Trash

No Opportunity Lost By Republicans To Lambast Kennedy Administration During Heavy Campaigning

Most of the campaign buttons worn with such show of confidence and pride at the polling places Tuesday are in the waste basket now.

Some, of course, will be carefully tucked away, to be brought out at future political rallies, and a few may even turn up on the labels of delegates to the 1964 Democratic and Republican national conventions. These will be the campaign badges of winning candidates — some dozen at most — who stand a good chance of using their high state offices or U. S. Congressional seats as springboards to bids for nomination on the national ticket as President or Vice Presidential candidates of their respective parties two years hence.

But by and large, the buttons, placards, automobile bumper stickers and other gimmicks used to inspire enthusiasm in the voters during the hard - fought fall election campaign, will go into limbo, rejected relics of another episode in U. S. political history.

As is customary with the "outs," the Republicans lost no opportunity to lambast the Kennedy Administration during the campaign, while the Democrats, for the most part, were content to champion and defend their leader, at the same time pointing out the advantages of electing Congressional representatives and other officials of the same political faith as the party in power.

Some of the G. O. P. slogans went even farther and attacked the Presidential family. From a sampling of campaign materials sent in to the Republican National Committee is this one from Texas: "The Kennedy Klan made a REPUBLIC-CAN out of me." Others include, "T M K — Too Many Kennedys," "Little Brother is Watching You," and "Jobs for Kinfolk."

Other lampoons, appearing on automobile stickers or pennants, included: "It's not Jack's jack he's spending, it's ours," "I miss Ike, heck, I even miss Truman," "Save me a seat on the next stage of the Old Frontier," "Kennedy cocktail — stocks on the rocks," and paraphrasing the most quoted line from President "Ask not what you can do — vote Republican." The firm stand taken by the President in the Cuban crisis undoubtedly caused the Republicans to drop this one "Walk softly and carry an umbrella."

Like most off - year elections, however, there was not the fervor and zing that was manifested during the preceding Presidential campaign in 1960, which, among other things, saw for the first time in history the standard bearers of the two great political parties confronting each other in debate over a nation - wide television hook - up. The Kennedy-Nixon debates may have established a precedent that will be followed in succeeding Presidential campaigns.

Among other trail - blazers on the unpredictable, frequently heart-breaking road of politics was William Jennings Bryan, who in his unsuccessful quest for the Presidency in 1896 made the first whistle - stopping tour. Bryan traveled 18,000 miles and made more than 600 speeches during the campaign, once making 24 speeches in 24 hours. Whenever the railroad missed a town, he left the train and took to the horse and buggy.

John Charles Freemont, Republican standard bearer in 1856, was the first Presidential candidate to bring his wife into the campaign. After the appearance of political banners and cartoons depicting the candidate with his pretty wife, some politicos remarked that "Freemont and Jessie" seemed to be the Republican ticket instead of Freemont and William L. Dayton, Freemont's running mate.

Campaign strategists are ever on the lookout for some symbol that will be a rallying emblem for the voters. During Andrew Jackson's first campaign, his followers took their cue from his nickname, Old Hickory. Young men paraded with hickory poles, which they planted in village squares. Frequently backers of John Quincy Adams, Jackson's opponent, grabbed the poles and fisticuffs ensued. Jackon's second race in 1833, saw the launching of another political weapon in this country that has gained in popularity through the years. This was the political cartoon. In Jackson's day these were rather crude drawings of people speaking, their words outlined in "balloons."

It sometimes happens that the opposing side over extends itself in trying to belittle a candidate. This happened in the 1840 campaign between William Henry Harrison, a Whig, and President Martin Van Buren, Democrat. The Democrats attempted to portray Harrison as a backwoods man who lived in a log cabin and drank hard cider. (In reality, Harrison was a wealthy plantation owner and lived in a stately white house on the Ohio River.)

Harrison's strategists were quick to seize the Democratic changes and make political hay out of them. They paraded carrying miniature log cabins and cider barrels. Some historians have credited the cheers that greeted this picturesque display with drowning out the issues and carrying the day for Harrison. One of the jingles the Whigs sang lustily during the campaign ran:

"Let Van from his coolers of silver drink wine
And lounge on his cushioned
settee;
Our man on his buckeye bench
can recline.
Content with hard cider is he."

The political slogan, "Turn the rascals out," was first used by Horace Greeley, candidate of the Liberal Republicans in 1872 against President Ulysses S. Grant. During the bitter campaign, however, so much vituperation was heaped upon Greeley, primarily by the Northern press because of his conciliatory attitude toward the South, he at one point remarked he didn't know whether he was running for the Presidency or the penitentiary.

President Zachery Taylor undoubtedly holds the record for a blase attitude toward high elective office. Although he had never cast a vote in his life, "Old Zach," a Mexican War hero, was picked by the Whigs as their standard bearer in 1848. When the party mailed him a letter informing him of the nomination, he refused to pay the ten cents postage due, and sent the letter back unopened.

Is It Arthritis?

This Question Often Asked By Those With Aches And Pains

You get up in the morning and your back aches: or you have a bearable yet bothersome pain in a knee or shoulder. After you have been up and around for a while you begin to feel as comfortable as ever. Many patients say: "What is it? Arthritis? Or what?" The answer is inevitably: "Could be — but there are other possibilities."

For example, here is Mrs. A., 52, who has been complaining of stiffness in her back for about an hour every morning. It wears off and she is as "good as new."

Examination reveals very little evidence of arthritic changes in her joints. In her case the temporary pain may be due to a fibrositis (inflammation of the fibrous tissue surrounding muscles) or due to a myositis (inflammation of the muscle itself, or its sheaths). In some patients these conditions — although not serious — can cause discomforts that last all day. However, others like Mrs. A. don't even need to take an aspirin for relief.

Arthritis or "rheumatism" is often used as an all - inclusive label for every ache, joint - creak, stiffness, soreness and actual severe pain that bedevils the human being. But you must remember that the right label is important. Otherwise you may suffer long and needlessly.

You and your doctor must ask yourselves: Is it bursitis? Myositis? Fibrositis? Or an ache tied up with some other disease process? It is understandable why the proper diagnosis is so important. If you suffer from bursitis, hit or miss treatment for arthritis will not help you. And if it is a form of arthritis, then your doctor must know just what type of arthritis it is.

For example, the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis differs from the management of osteoarthritis (the degenerative type which is so common after 40). In the first instance you may need treatment with gold salts, cortisone or other special medications. In many cases of osteoarthritis a few aspirin tablets a day are all that are needed to keep you comfortable.

I won't go further into treatment of arthritis here. However, if you are subject to the aches and pains I have mentioned, I suggest that you write for my leaflet on "How to Manage Arthritis." Send a stamped, self - addressed envelope enclosing 10 cents for the leaflet. It will help answer many of your questions on arthritis and put you on the right track to proper diagnosis, treatment and general care of the nagging aches and other discomforts so many of us suffer.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: If you had a teen who suffers from acne would you keep on sending him to a doctor — even though nothing seems to help? — Mrs. L.

Comment: My heart goes out to these youngsters who suffer so much psychologically and physically when they are festered with pimples and blemishes that make them so self - conscious and unhappy. When I was in my teens I had acne for a few years; youngsters don't have to draw me any pictures to describe their unhappiness. Here is my answer:

Where stubborn acne is a problem, never let your teen think you are ready to call it quits. Even though the acne doesn't seem to be getting better, don't ever say, "What's the use of going to the doctor? He isn't helping you."

For, when you do that, you have raised the white flag. You have removed the youngster's last hope of getting a good complexion — and feeling relaxed and easy in the company of his friends, male and female. Then and there you expose him to defeat and hopelessness.

Don't take the chance of throwing him into despair. If the doctor can do no more than keep encouraging him, it's worth the money and effort. Cure will come later; but the youngster must believe that parents and doctor are still trying.

Reds' Timetable

Kennedy's Over-Anxiety Saves Khrushchev's Face With Army

Though there is crisis in Cuba and war in India, pundits in and out of government have acted as if there were no connection between the two. Yet what happens anywhere in the world during this titantic struggle between freedom and Communism affects the balance of power. According to highly reliable sources, this is the Communist worldwide timetable. It shows that if the free and-or neutral nations continue to think in terms of isolated events, they will fall prey to their enemies.

The chronology:

1. During the late spring and early summer, Comrade Khrushchev discussed with the Politburo and his military advisers ways and means to dislodge the NATO powers from Berlin. He proposed as a first move the establishment of nuclear missile bases in Cuba, supported by units of the Soviet army and air force.

2. The Khrushchev plan entailed a steady heightening of the Berlin crisis. The Soviet dictator argued that by unveiling his bases in Cuba shortly after the Congressional elections, he could threaten the United States with nuclear retaliation should President Kennedy make any moves to prevent a Communist takeover of West Berlin. At the very worst, he could frighten off the U. S. from any preventive action and still retain his Cuban ace - in - the - hole.

3. Soviet military leaders warned that this might be a dangerous undertaking. Khrushchev overruled them, insisting that President Kennedy would not dare to attempt a showdown when faced by powerful nuclear bases 90 miles off the U. S. coast.

4. In July, the Soviet missile build - up began in Cuba. This was immediately reported to Peiping by the Chinese Communist agents who were swarming over the island. There is reason to believe that the Chinese Reds decided independently to time an invasion of India to coincide with the last stages of the Soviet build-up in Cuba.

Khrushchev welcomes this diversion, certain that American attention would be focussed on the India - China frontier. The Chinese Reds were reassured by a Kremlin promise that India would get no Soviet planes or arms.

5. Everything seemed to be going according to plan. The Communists — who read our newspapers, listen to our commentators, and peek at our secret reports — knew that the highest echelons in the U. S. government had Intelligence information of the Soviet build - up in Cuba. That the President, the Secretary of State, and a host of Administration spokesmen denied categorically the existence of nuclear missile bases in Cuba convinced Khrushchev that the U. S. was too "liberal" to fight. This may have made him over - confident.

6. The invasion of India had begun when President Kennedy, having sampled public opinion, declared a naval blockade of Cuba and demanded the dismantling of nuclear missiles. Khrushchev still felt that Mr. Kennedy would not stand firm — so orders were given to continue work on the Cuban launching pads. But at this point, the Soviet military moved in. They told Khrushchev that the U.S.S.R. was not ready for war and that they would take no responsibility for the Cuban adventure. "Pull back," they urged — and he did.

7. When Khrushchev suddenly "agreed" to meet U. S. demands for withdrawal, Peiping paused in its invasion. The Red Chinese were suddenly confronted by what seemed like the collapse of Soviet nerve — and they began to suspect that perhaps the wily Russians had sold them down the river.

8. President Kennedy's over - anxiety to be concfliatory stiffened Khrushchev's back. He could now count on his usual delaying tactics to win him concessions. And he could berate the military for its timidity.

Result: The Soviet army has lost face. Comrade Khrushchev, who for one panicky moment believed in American determination, "proved" to those who warned of the Cuban intervention that he was right. The Chinese Reds began to mobilize for a great push which should carry them over the mountains and allow them to roll at will into India proper.

If this chronology is correct, then there is serious trouble ahead for the United States. Berlin is still the target. And any further warnings by the President that the U. S. will resist aggression will tend to be viewed as political shadow - boxing. Cuba, in short, may be to Khrushchev what the Rineland was to Hitler.

Ceiling Doubled

Person With Heavy Medical Expenses Is Able To Deduct More

If you've had catastrophic medical bills this year, one comforting bit of news is that a new law gives you significant tax relief. For the law doubles the ceiling on deductions for medical expenses for practically everyone for 1962 and on.

Until this year, the general rule has been that you could not deduct more medical expenses in one year than $2,500 multiplied by the personal exemptions to which you are entitled (not counting extra exemptions for blind persons and those 65 or over). In no event though, could a single person — other than head of a household or surviving spouse entitled to income splitting — or a married person filing a separate return deduct more than $5,000. Nor could a married person filing a joint return or a head of household, or a surviving spouse entitled to income splitting deduct more than $10,000 in one year.

All these figures have now been doubled. Let's assume you are a married man with three children and this year you were hit by uninsured medical expenses of $15,000 over and above 3 per cent of your total adjusted gross income. Under the old law, your top deduction would have been $10,000, even though $2,500 multiplied by five exemptions comes to $12,500.

Because of the new law, your ceiling is now five times $5,000, but no more than $20,000. You can therefore deduct the entire $15,000 as your medical expense in 1962 and thereby slash your taxes.

If you have been close to the old dollar limits on medical deductions and worrying about losing deductions or additional medical expenses you must meet this year, you can now readjust your planning and make your payments within the doubled ceilings.

The ceilings on deductions by disabled persons 65 or over also have been lifted. The previous ceiling for medical deductions by the disabled person 65 or over was $15,000, and for both a taxpayer and his spouse disabled and 65 or over, the ceiling was $30,000. The new limits are $20,000 and $40,000.

The 3 per cent "floor" on medical expenses remains. To summarize, if you are under 65, you can deduct medical expenses above 3 per cent of your total adjusted gross income. You can include in your medical expenses the cost of drugs and medicines only to the extent that they exceed 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

This means that if your medical expenses don't go over 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income in either 1962 or 1963, you won't be entitled to any medical expense deduction in either year. Your year - end tax strategy clearly calls for an attempt to shift your expected medical expenses so that they run over the 3 per cent limit in at least one of the two years.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

One of the most colorful figures in the history of the United States passed from the scene with the recent death of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Always controversial in her own country and never removed from the limelight, Mrs. Roosevelt may have been the best-known woman in the world with the possible exception of British royalty.

Some regarded Mrs. Roosevelt as an ardent crusader for great causes while others looked on her as a shatterer of honored American tradition and a spoiler of this country's fundamental democracy.

"One of the great ladies in the history of this country has passed from the scene," said President Kennedy in mourning the death of Mrs. Roosevelt. This tribute came despite the fact that Mrs. Roosevelt backed Adlai Stevenson for the Democratic presidential nomination against Kennedy. Views of Mrs. Roosevelt and Stevenson tallied close in the matters of one-worldism and the United Nations.

Mrs. Roosevelt regarded herself as a humanitarian and so did many thousands of others who shared her views. Even those who opposed her and regarded her socialist views as a menace to the democracy of this country and her integration stand as an attempt to break down the natural laws of segregation and as an effort to shatter the nation's most treasured traditions and customs, found her humanitarianism hard to deny.

Further, Mrs. Roosevelt was almost entirely devoid of venom and vituperation. Under some of the strongest personal attacks ever unloosed on anyone in the public eye, she was imperturbable, almost never bothering to answer her critics or to turn on them. She merely went calmly along her course.

Abraham Lincoln was called the emancipator of the Negro slaves and some may regard the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt as the amalgamator of the races in the United States. It is doubtful, however, that any major share of the credit or discredit for bringing about race-mixing should go to Roosevelt. He used it as a votegetter and set a pattern which many other politicians, including President Kennedy, have followed, but Mrs. Roosevelt was the real crusader and the true believer who set integration into motion.

Always wholly human, Mrs. Roosevelt was never out of place among the lowly nor among the high and mighty. Mentally and socially she was always at least the equal of dignitaries, heads of state, royalty and high churchmen of many nations.

Those who shared her views heralded her as the grand lady of the United States and those who thought she was leading this country into socialism, decay and oneworldism recognized her rare abilities.

The United States is not likely soon to produce another like her.

Moon And Recreation

Many talk about and some bemoan the huge cost of the United States' moon project, in which placing a manned space craft on the moon is one of the principal objectives, but—

A space official said recently the price of one martini per week for each adult in this country would come close to paying for the whole moon project. He added that the nation spends $20 billion a year on recreation.

We must reach the conclusion that the people of this country spend a tremendous amount on recreation or the cost of the moon project is not so exorbitant as it has been pictured to be.

Dr. Edward C. Welch, executive secretary of the National Space Council, made the statement when he spoke at Lafayette College in Easton, Pa.

He said the United States is spending about 40 cents per person per week on its entire program of space exploration. The price, he said, probably will be as high as 75 cents per capita per week.

Commenting on the fact that this country spends more than $20 billion a year on recreation, Welch added, "It can spend $5 or $10 billion a year on space without decreasing the number of yachts or even the number of golf clubs in use."

Spending on space, Welch said, "will make us stronger and wealthier." In a few years, he said, "several million persons will be working in space industries as compared with 800,000 in the automobile industry last year.

It can easily be seen that this might open up industrial prosperity beyond the imagination. We look upon the automobile industry as the backbone of our economy but if space industries so far outdistance the automobile industry our financial and economic horizons will be broadened and extended in proportion to the distance we go in space exploration. That is something that brings the imagination new ecstacies in exercise.

Welch said the United States must develop "space competition" in order to keep space peaceful. Noting Soviet launching successes, he said the United States must not "overlook the blackmail possibilities of the weapons of space."

Aside from protecting ourselves from aggression by other countries that might gain control of space, we know that space development is as natural as growth of any kind, that it vastly increases our economic potential, that it will reduce the joblessness caused by automation to a minimal point and that it will carry man's imagination to new heights and new glories of achievement.

I won't go further into treatment of arthritis here. However, if you are subject to the aches and pains I have mentioned, I suggest that you write for my leaflet on "How to Manage Arthritis." Send a stamped, self - addressed envelope enclosing 10 cents for the leaflet. It will help answer many of your questions on arthritis and put you on the right track to proper diagnosis, treatment and general care of the nagging aches and other discomforts so many of us suffer.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: If you had a teen who suffers from acne would you keep on sending him to a doctor — even though nothing seems to help? — Mrs. L.

Comment: My heart goes out to these youngsters who suffer so much psychologically and physically when they are festered with pimples and blemishes that make them so self - conscious and unhappy. When I was in my teens I had acne for a few years; youngsters don't have to draw me any pictures to describe their unhappiness. Here is my answer:

Where stubborn acne is a problem, never let your teen think you are ready to call it quits. Even though the acne doesn't seem to be getting better, don't ever say, "What's the use of going to the doctor? He isn't helping you."

For, when you do that, you have raised the white flag. You have removed the youngster's last hope of getting a good complexion — and feeling relaxed and easy in the company of his friends, male and female. Then and there you expose him to defeat and hopelessness.

Don't take the chance of throwing him into despair. If the doctor can do no more than keep encouraging him, it's worth the money and effort. Cure will come later; but the youngster must believe that parents and doctor are still trying.

Reds' Timetable

Kennedy's Over-Anxiety Saves Khrushchev's Face With Army

Though there is crisis in Cuba and war in India, pundits in and out of government have acted as if there were no connection between the two. Yet what happens anywhere in the world during this titantic struggle between freedom and Communism affects the balance of power. According to highly reliable sources, this is the Communist worldwide timetable. It shows that if the free and-or neutral nations continue to think in terms of isolated events, they will fall prey to their enemies.

The chronology:

1. During the late spring and early summer, Comrade Khrushchev discussed with the Politburo and his military advisers ways and means to dislodge the NATO powers from Berlin. He proposed as a first move the establishment of nuclear missile bases in Cuba, supported by units of the Soviet army and air force.

2. The Khrushchev plan entailed a steady heightening of the Berlin crisis. The Soviet dictator argued that by unveiling his bases in Cuba shortly after the Congressional elections, he could threaten the United States with nuclear retaliation should President Kennedy make any moves to prevent a Communist takeover of West Berlin. At the very worst, he could frighten off the U. S. from any preventive action and still retain his Cuban ace - in - the - hole.

3. Soviet military leaders warned that this might be a dangerous undertaking. Khrushchev overruled them, insisting that President Kennedy would not dare to attempt a showdown when faced by powerful nuclear bases 90 miles off the U. S. coast.

4. In July, the Soviet missile build - up began in Cuba. This was immediately reported to Peiping by the Chinese Communist agents who were swarming over the island. There is reason to believe that the Chinese Reds decided independently to time an invasion of India to coincide with the last stages of the Soviet build-up in Cuba.

Khrushchev welcomes this diversion, certain that American attention would be focussed on the India - China frontier. The Chinese Reds were reassured by a Kremlin promise that India would get no Soviet planes or arms.

5. Everything seemed to be going according to plan. The Communists — who read our newspapers, listen to our commentators, and peek at our secret reports — knew that the highest echelons in the U. S. government had Intelligence information of the Soviet build - up in Cuba. That the President, the Secretary of State, and a host of Administration spokesmen denied categorically the existence of nuclear missile bases in Cuba convinced Khrushchev that the U. S. was too "liberal" to fight. This may have made him over - confident.

6. The invasion of India had begun when President Kennedy, having sampled public opinion, declared a naval blockade of Cuba and demanded the dismantling of nuclear missiles. Khrushchev still felt that Mr. Kennedy would not stand firm — so orders were given to continue work on the Cuban launching pads. But at this point, the Soviet military moved in. They told Khrushchev that the U.S.S.R. was not ready for war and that they would take no responsibility for the Cuban adventure. "Pull back," they urged — and he did.

7. When Khrushchev suddenly "agreed" to meet U. S. demands for withdrawal, Peiping paused in its invasion. The Red Chinese were suddenly confronted by what seemed like the collapse of Soviet nerve — and they began to suspect that perhaps the wily Russians had sold them down the river.

8. President Kennedy's over - anxiety to be concfliatory stiffened Khrushchev's back. He could now count on his usual delaying tactics to win him concessions. And he could berate the military for its timidity.

Result: The Soviet army has lost face. Comrade Khrushchev, who for one panicky moment believed in American determination, "proved" to those who warned of the Cuban intervention that he was right. The Chinese Reds began to mobilize for a great push which should carry them over the mountains and allow them to roll at will into India proper.

If this chronology is correct, then there is serious trouble ahead for the United States. Berlin is still the target. And any further warnings by the President that the U. S. will resist aggression will tend to be viewed as political shadow - boxing. Cuba, in short, may be to Khrushchev what the Rineland was to Hitler.

Ceiling Doubled

Person With Heavy Medical Expenses Is Able To Deduct More

If you've had catastrophic medical bills this year, one comforting bit of news is that a new law gives you significant tax relief. For the law doubles the ceiling on deductions for medical expenses for practically everyone for 1962 and on.

Until this year, the general rule has been that you could not deduct more medical expenses in one year than $2,500 multiplied by the personal exemptions to which you are entitled (not counting extra exemptions for blind persons and those 65 or over). In no event though, could a single person — other than head of a household or surviving spouse entitled to income splitting — or a married person filing a separate return deduct more than $5,000. Nor could a married person filing a joint return or a head of household, or a surviving spouse entitled to income splitting deduct more than $10,000 in one year.

All these figures have now been doubled. Let's assume you are a married man with three children and this year you were hit by uninsured medical expenses of $15,000 over and above 3 per cent of your total adjusted gross income. Under the old law, your top deduction would have been $10,000, even though $2,500 multiplied by five exemptions comes to $12,500.

Because of the new law, your ceiling is now five times $5,000, but no more than $20,000. You can therefore deduct the entire $15,000 as your medical expense in 1962 and thereby slash your taxes.

If you have been close to the old dollar limits on medical deductions and worrying about losing deductions or additional medical expenses you must meet this year, you can now readjust your planning and make your payments within the doubled ceilings.

The ceilings on deductions by disabled persons 65 or over also have been lifted. The previous ceiling for medical deductions by the disabled person 65 or over was $15,000, and for both a taxpayer and his spouse disabled and 65 or over, the ceiling was $30,000. The new limits are $20,000 and $40,000.

The 3 per cent "floor" on medical expenses remains. To summarize, if you are under 65, you can deduct medical expenses above 3 per cent of your total adjusted gross income. You can include in your medical expenses the cost of drugs and medicines only to the extent that they exceed 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

This means that if your medical expenses don't go over 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income in either 1962 or 1963, you won't be entitled to any medical expense deduction in either year.

Your year - end tax strategy clearly calls for an attempt to shift your expected medical expenses so that they run over the 3 per cent limit in at least one of the two years.

In 1775, the U.S. Marine Corps was authorized by the Continental Congress then in Philadelphia.

In 1919, the American Legion held its first national convention in Minneapolis.

In 1950, the United Nations Security Council adopted a resolution asking the U.N. to call on Communist China to withdraw its troops from North Korea.

In 1957, the U.S. office of Education reported that a two-year study showed the Soviets outstripping the U.S. in its emphasis on technical and scientific education.

A thought for the day— the Scottish essayist, novelist and poet, Robert Louis Stevenson, said: "Marriage is like life in this—that it is a field of battle, and not a bed of roses."

Red China Hurls Barbs At Soviet

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China's intensive "hate America" campaign with its sharp barbs at the Soviet Union for its Cuban "Munich" entered its second week Friday. There was no indication the propaganda tirade was near its end.

Peipings strong and militant support of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, its vehement denunciation of the United States and its criticism of Soviet tactics raised the possibility the regime might be trying to take Russia's place in Cuba.

The "hate America" campaign was the biggest since the Korean War. Peiping Radio reported continued mass demonstrations throughout the country and a series of angry statements and editorials. But behind the campaign was slap after slap at the Soviet Union.

The continued criticism of the Soviet missile withdrawal from Cuba was unprecedented and emphasized Peiping's challenge to Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's leadership of the Communist world.

Peiping Radio repeated time and again that the United States —"U.S. imperialism"—must be opposed by force of arms.

It said Castro's five-point demand, including U.S. withdrawal from its Guantanamo naval base, "exposed the vicious scheme of U.S. imperialism and showed the Cuban people the road of struggle."

Then in sharp contrast it listed the Soviet actions — the dismantling of the rocket pads and the removal of missiles, the agreement on open sea inspection of ships taking away these weapons. Another broadcast said the United States is going so far as to count the weapons.

The Monroe Optimist Club was presented Friday with a "Distinguished Service Award" from the City of Monroe for the club's work at the Bernstein Park zoo.

It was only the fourth DSA that the City Council has made.

"In recognition of your splendid efforts at the city zoo, the City Council feels that the Monroe Optimist Club is deserving of its 'Distinguished Service Award'," Mayor W. L. Howard told the Optimists at their weekly luncheon.

The Optimists sponsored a special "zoo day" October 28th in a grand opening of the city's new combination reptile - apehouse at Bernstein Park.

Prior to the presentation of the award, the Optimists informed the City Council that $1,500 netted at the "zoo day" would be dedicated to the construction of a tiger house at the zoo.

In addition, a $325 appropriation was announced for the sponsoring of a boys baseball team in the Monroe league. The Optimists last year financed the construction of a monkey island at the zoo.

Besides Howard, city officials present for the Optimist luncheon included Street Commissioner W. D. H. Rodriguez, Finance Commissioner H. W. McSherry, Recreation Director Jack Hesketh and Zoo Director Kit Beecher.

Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, spoke in tribute to Mrs. Roosevelt, whom he called "the first lady of the world."

Adenauer Claims Telephone Tapped

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer astounded West Germany's Parliament by complaining Friday that his home telephone calls have been tapped.

"For some time I have not dared to carry out confidential talks—let alone secret ones—over my telephone," the 86-year-old chancellor said. "Obviously, others are listening in."

He gave no clue as to whom he might suspect.

It was the latest development in the Der Spiegel magazine treason case, which was being debated for the third straight day in the Bundestag. The arrest of the publisher and four editors has raised a storm of national controversy and already come close to breaking up Adenauer's coalition government.

An opposition Social Democratic deputy asked if the government has taken measures to insure that the right of private communication is being preserved. There has been much talk in Bonn lately, particularly among newsmen, about noises during telephone conversations taken to be evidence of tapping.

Adenauer broke in before Interior Minister Hermann Hoecherl could answer the question. After complaining that his calls were being listened to, the chancellor said that he had requested the postal minister to start an investigation.

Legally, only the United States, Britain and France can tap telephone calls in West Germany. They retained this and other security rights when granting the country sovereignty in 1955.

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS

Rep. Edward McPherson, Republican of the Gettysburg, Pa., district, dropped in to see President Lincoln soon after the off-year elections in the fall of 1862.

Gettysburg was considered a "safe" Republican district but McPherson had been soundly beaten by a Democrat. Why, Lincoln asked him?

"Well, Mr. President," McPherson replied, "I will tell you frankly what our friends say. They charge the defeat to the general tardiness in military movements, which result, as they believe, from (Maj. Gen. George B.) McClellan's unfitness for command. The enforcement of the draft occurred during the campaign, and of course our political enemies made a great deal of it; but in my judgment, not enough to change the complexion of the district."

(McClellan had been removed from command of the Army of the Potomac by Lincoln two days after the election.)

Adding to McPherson's political woes, Gen. J. E. B. Stuart's Confederate cavalry had ridden through his district a few days before election, camped overnight in Chambersburg, burned the railroad shops and stripped the community of horses.

McPherson's defeat was typical of what happened to the Republicans in the election. The only interpretation that could be placed on the results was an out and out defeat of the Lincoln administration.

Party lines, not distinct at best, melted at the polls in much of the North.

Broadly speaking, the Republicans were split into Radical and Conservative wings. The Radicals advocated a tough policy against the South — abolition of slavery, vigorous prosecution of the war, use of Negro troops and punishment of Confederates once the rebellious states were subdued. The Conservatives favored a milder course — let slavery alone for the moment and conduct the war solely to bring the South back into the Union.

The Republican party in 1862 still was a coalition of splinter groups, former Whigs, rebellious Democrats and various dissidents who rallied in the late 1850s around the issue of extension of slavery into the territories. It ran its first presidential candidate in 1856 and lost. But by 1860 it was strong enough to elect Lincoln as a sectional candidate when the Democrats split hopelessly over North - South issues.

The Democrats in the North were divided into War and Peace wings. The War wing corresponded roughly to the Conservative Republican wing. The Peace faction wanted the war settled immediately, many of them at any price.

After the 1860 election, when Southern Democrats ran John C. Breckenridge and the Northern Democrats put up Stephen A. Douglas, the northern part of the party was leaderless and issueless. By 1862 the party slowly was forming into the War and Peace wings but carefully avoiding any common interest with the Southern party, which was the only party in the Confederacy.

Other issues besides the military also muddied the results of the election. Prices were high, which caused fear of inflation. Taxes also were high and eating up money Northerners had been using for personal purposes.

Lincoln's preliminary Emancipation Proclamation, only a couple of months old, won votes in the abolition belts of New England, Northern Ohio and Michigan but lost votes in the border areas.

Suspension of the writ of habeas corpus arbitrary arrests, fear of abolition flooding the labor market with cheap help, all added to the general political unrest so likely to occur in off years.

When all the returns were in from the election — held in those days in October and November rather than on a common date — the administration had lost 31 seats in the House. New Yorkers elected Horatio Seymour, a War Democrat, as governor in a hard fight. New Jersey went Democratic for governor and legislature and the Democrats took four of five House seats. Illinois, Lincoln's home state, went Democratic, too, the opposition taking 9 of 14 seats. Lincoln's close friend Leonard Swett, was defeated in a district which had been Republican for two elections, and by John T. Stuart, Lincoln's first law partner. In Ohio the Democrats took 14 seats to the Republican's 5; in Indiana 7 of 11. The parties split the Pennsylvania delegation.

The administration saved its House majority by winning in Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Oregon, California and New England.

The Border states of Kentucky and Delaware went Democratic and Missouri Republican, probably because the army supervised the polls.

Lincoln came up with three reasons for his party's defeat.

"Certainly the ill success of the war had much to do with this," he wrote to Carl Schurz, a German - born brigadier who had been minister to Spain and had returned to work against slavery.

Lincoln's other reasons were had gone to war, leaving Democratic voters in the majority and their leaders had made the most of it.

The cabinet also came under fire after the elections. It was split wide open over slavery. Secretary of Treasury Salmon P. Chase, A radical Republican, was fighting with Postmaster General Montgomery Blair, an ex-Democrat and lukewarm on slavery. Caleb B. Smith, secretary of interior, complained that the cabinet had no voice in big questions. Secretary of State William H. Seward was a target for both Radical and Conservative Republicans. Both factions thought he was manipulating Lincoln. Chase suspected that Lincoln was wavering on emancipation and might not make the proclamation permanent on Jan. 1, 1863, as the first draft promised. Chase already was maneuvering for the presidential nomination in 1864 and pressed his case at every opportunity.

Out of this cabinet fight and the bad showing in the elections, two issues were shaping up as the congressional session of December grew nearer.

Would Lincoln remain firm on the Emancipation Proclamation?

Would the cabinet with all its dissidents be retained?

But what the politicians did not know at the time was that Lincoln by the start of 1863 would stand pat on freeing the slaves and clarify the issues not only for Congress but for the generations to come.

Beer was considered an essential for German troops in the Civil War. Special licenses were given to them for barrels of the brew.

When it became obvious that he had been named president, Abraham Lincoln walked home on election night, Nov. 6, 1860, and said to his beaming wife, Mary Todd Lincoln:

"Mary, we're elected."

Harriet Lane was hostess of the White House during the administration of President Buchanan, a bachelor. She was the president's niece.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

MEDICAL BROWSING

Leeches are found in lakes and ponds and are abundant in tropical forests and bushes. They attach themselves to man while he is swimming or wading in infected waters. These parasites are bloodsuckers and, with heavy infestations, significant amounts of blood can be lost thru the skin. This is known as external hirudiniasis and is painless.

Internal hirudiniasis is so uncommon in this country that few of us have ever heard about it. Small leeches adhere to the lining of the larynx, upper respiratory tract, windpipe, or esophagus. The ensuing irritation leads to hoarseness, cough, nasal obstruction, or nausea. In such instances, the tiny leeches are swallowed in drinking water. They also may enter the bladder or pelvic organs when swimming in infested lakes or ponds. This leads to a variety of urinary symptoms. Anemia often follows oozing of large amounts of blood. Death may occur from obstruction of the air passageways.

Removal is the only treatment. Leeches on the skin will let go when touched with vinegar or a lighted cigarette. But when they are located inside the body, elimination is more difficult. The bladder must be irrigated with strong solutions. For respiratory tract infestation, the physician must pass a bronchoscope into the passageways and pick them off one at a time. Prevention consists of boiling the drinking water in infested areas and staying out of lakes and ponds that contain these worms.

This aspect of the leech is seldom mentioned when we read of their usage in ye olden days along with bloodletting, purging, and cupping.

Another old - timer recently in the news is plague.

Ring a-ring a-roses,
A pocketful of poesies,
Ashes, ashes,
All fall down.

This is an English version of a rhyme children have been singing since 1665 but I doubt if they realize what the words meant originally.

According to James Leasor, in his book, The Plague and the Fire, the jingle goes back to the darkest days of the London plague that took the lives of more than 100,000 citizens that year. The ring of roses was the florid epidemic of plague and the poesies were the herbs and spices carried to ward off the contagion. The last part — with its ashes and "all fall down" — is the most sinister aspect of the rhyme.

HOMESICKNESS

Mrs D. writes: Is there any way to cure homesickness? Whenever I go away I keep thinking of home and cannot enjoy my vacation.

REPLY

Homesickness is a healthy disease and does not require treatment unless it interferes seriously with your opportunity to travel or go away on vacation.

WON'T MELT FAT

J. K. writes: I have very large hips and bust. Will applying a heating pad to these parts to lose weight be harmful or helpful?

REPLY

ANIMAL RINGWORM

J. B. writes: If a horse has ringworm, can its rider contract the infection?

REPLY

Certain types of animal ringworm are transmissible to man but this is unusual.

CLUBFOOT

Mrs. A. writes: Two of my grandchildren were born with clubfoot. Does this disorder run in families?

REPLY

Yes, but the condition is hereditary in less than 20 per cent of the cases.

By 1862 the party slowly was forming into the War and Peace wings but carefully avoiding any common interest with the Southern party, which was the only party in the Confederacy.

Other issues besides the military also muddied the results of the election. Prices were high, which caused fear of inflation. Taxes also were high and eating up money Northerners had been using for personal purposes.

Lincoln's preliminary Emancipation Proclamation, only a couple of months old, won votes in the abolition belts of New England, Northern Ohio and Michigan but lost votes in the border areas.

Suspension of the writ of habeas corpus arbitrary arrests, fear of abolition flooding the labor market with cheap help, all added to the general political unrest so likely to occur in off years.

When all the returns were in from the election — held in those days in October and November rather than on a common date — the administration had lost 31 seats in the House. New Yorkers elected Horatio Seymour, a War Democrat, as governor in a hard fight. New Jersey went Democratic for governor and legislature and the Democrats took four of five House seats. Illinois, Lincoln's home state, went Democratic, too, the opposition taking 9 of 14 seats. Lincoln's close friend Leonard Swett, was defeated in a district which had been Republican for two elections, and by John T. Stuart, Lincoln's first law partner. In Ohio the Democrats took 14 seats to the Republican's 5; in Indiana 7 of 11. The parties split the Pennsylvania delegation.

The administration saved its House majority by winning in Michigan, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Oregon, California and New England.

The Border states of Kentucky and Delaware went Democratic and Missouri Republican, probably because the army supervised the polls.

Lincoln came up with three reasons for his party's defeat.

"Certainly the ill success of the war had much to do with this," he wrote to Carl Schurz, a German - born brigadier who had been minister to Spain and had returned to work against slavery.

Lincoln's other reasons were had gone to war, leaving Democratic voters in the majority and their leaders had made the most of it.

The cabinet also came under fire after the elections. It was split wide open over slavery. Secretary of Treasury Salmon P. Chase. A radical Republican, was fighting with Postmaster General Montgomery Blair, an ex-Democrat and lukewarm on slavery. Caleb B. Smith, secretary of interior, complained that the cabinet had no voice in big questions. Secretary of State William H. Seward was a target for both Radical and Conservative Republicans. Both factions thought he was manipulating Lincoln. Chase suspected that Lincoln was wavering on emancipation and might not make the proclamation permanent on Jan. 1, 1863, as the first draft promised. Chase already was maneuvering for the presidential nomination in 1864 and pressed his case at every opportunity.

Out of this cabinet fight and the bad showing in the elections, two issues were shaping up as the congressional session of December grew nearer.

Would Lincoln remain firm on the Emancipation Proclamation?

Would the cabinet with all its dissidents be retained?

But what the politicians did not know at the time was that Lincoln by the start of 1863 would stand pat on freeing the slaves and clarify the issues not only for Congress but for the generations to come.

Beer was considered an essential for German troops in the Civil War. Special licenses were given to them for barrels of the brew.

When it became obvious that he had been named president, Abraham Lincoln walked home on election night, Nov. 6, 1860, and said to his beaming wife, Mary Todd Lincoln:

"Mary, we're elected."

Harriet Lane was hostess of the White House during the administration of President Buchanan, a bachelor. She was the president's niece.

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Bette Davis arrived in Manhattan only a few hours after her ex-husband, Gary Merrill, flew to the West Coast to take legal action in an effort to force child visitation rights. He hopes to get a court ruling to have their child spend the Christmas holidays and definite periods during 1963 with him . . . "Lawrence of Arabia" has finally been passed by the Censorship Board with an A rating . . . which means anybody of any age can go to see it. There had been some anxious moments about its chances to pass.

Mitzi Gaynor, making the round of the Gotham supper clubs, is actually in town to consult doctors about a spinal injury she recently suffered while making a movie. It doesn't seem to be healing quickly enough. . .Dorothy Dandridge surprised her New York friends by disclosing that she's going to file for a divorce from her husband, West Coast night club operator Jack Dennison. She hopes to get it over with as quickly and peacefully as possible. . . Graham Greene, the esteemed novelist, has signed to write a fiction piece for one of those "girlie" magazines, Rogue.

The famed Club Harlem in Atlantic City was raided the other day on charges of harboring ladies of the evening . . . Preview peekers at an incoming musical comedy say it still needs a pulmotor to help breathe some life into the second act, despite some funny material injected by a top comedy writer who was called in to help save the show . . The United Nations has requested a special showing of "Long Day's Journey Into Night" to be set up on Nov. 30, in the Dag Hammarskjold Memorial Auditorium. Several hundred UN members are expected to attend.

Harold Robbins' novel, "Where Love Has Gone," jumped onto the best - seller list — in 7th place, which is pretty good for starters. Joe Levine (who else?) has acquired the property for filming. . One Lexington Ave. bar now has a gold - plated sign in one of its alcoves. It reads: Marilyn Monroe's Booth." Joe DiMaggio will flip.

Lana Turner is still sizzling over an incident that happened on the set of her latest film, "Who's Got The Action?" In one of the scenes Lana is shown taking a bubble bath, and a prop man became so excited during the shooting that he ripped off his clothes and jumped into the bathtub with her. Naturally there was someone on the set to photograph the unusual action . . . Vivian Blaine is dating a good - looking bartender in a popular Gotham restaurant.

Since Zsa Zsa Gabor's marriage, Bob Straile has been hiding out in his 18 - room Long Island house, which he bought for Zsa Zsa. Concert pianist Susan Cohen has been trying to console him, but so far he's been inconsolable . . . When Jill St. John and Lance Reventlow finally decided to part, they really meant it. She is coming to New York to read for a Broadway play and he hopes to take part in the Dodger Stadium Race. In December, he'll probably go to Nassau for the races there.

Bunker Hill, newest of the rock 'n' roll singers with a hit disc, used to be one of Archie Moore's sparring partners. The title of the deathless tune is "Hide and Go Seek" . . . It shouldn't be a surprise that dramatic star Vivien Leigh's next Broadway show, "Tovarich," is a musical. Way back, in her teens, Viv started out as a singing and dancing soubrette at the London Palladium. . . UN insiders predict that Nikita Khrushchev will turn up before the UN General Assembly early in December. He has a theory that he's likely to find Americans "in a more receptive mood" just before Christmas. . . .

Diahann Carroll's Philarmonic Hall concert Dec. 2 should be a delight for music lovers. Along with her silky songs from "No Strings" and other Broadway show tunes, Diahann's repertoire will include compositions by Kurt Weill, Marc Blitzstein and Leonard Bernstein . . The Actors Studio Benefit at Carnegie Hall on Nov. 29 will feature Abe Burrows, Mike Nichols and Elaine May in some of the funniest comedy seen anywhere in a long time. The entertainment, which will be seen on a closed - circuit telecast, benefits the $30,000,000 National Culture Center, which has Mrs. John F. Kennedy and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower as honorary National co - chairmen.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

MEDICAL BROWSING

Leeches are found in lakes and ponds and are abundant in tropical forests and bushes. They attach themselves to man while he is swimming or wading in infected waters. These parasites are bloodsuckers and, with heavy infestations, significant amounts of blood can be lost thru the skin. This is known as external hirudiniasis and is painless.

Internal hirudiniasis is so uncommon in this country that few of us have ever heard about it. Small leeches adhere to the lining of the larynx, upper respiratory tract, windpipe, or esophagus. The ensuing irritation leads to hoarseness, cough, nasal obstruction, or nausea. In such instances, the tiny leeches are swallowed in drinking water. They also may enter the bladder or pelvic organs when swimming in infested lakes or ponds. This leads to a variety of urinary symptoms. Anemia often follows oozing of large amounts of blood. Death may occur from obstruction of the air passageways.

Removal is the only treatment. Leeches on the skin will let go when touched with vinegar or a lighted cigarette. But when they are located inside the body, elimination is more difficult. The bladder must be irrigated with strong solutions. For respiratory tract infestation, the physician must pass a bronchoscope into the passageways and pick them off one at a time. Prevention consists of boiling the drinking water in infested areas and staying out of lakes and ponds that contain these worms.

This aspect of the leech is seldom mentioned when we read of their usage in ye olden days along with bloodletting, purging, and cupping.

Another old - timer recently in the news is plague.

Ring a-ring a-roses,
A pocketful of poesies,
Ashes, ashes,
All fall down.

This is an English version of a rhyme children have been singing since 1665 but I doubt if they realize what the words meant originally.

According to James Leasor, in his book, The Plague and the Fire, the jingle goes back to the darkest days of the London plague that took the lives of more than 100,000 citizens that year. The ring of roses was the florid epidemic of plague and the poesies were the herbs and spices carried to ward off the contagion. The last part — with its ashes and "all fall down" — is the most sinister aspect of the rhyme.

HOMESICKNESS

Mrs. D. writes: Is there any way to cure homesickness? Whenever I go away I keep thinking of home and cannot enjoy my vacation.

REPLY

Homesickness is a healthy disease and does not require treatment unless it interferes seriously with your opportunity to travel or go away on vacation.

WON'T MELT FAT

J. K. writes: I have very large hips and bust. Will applying a heating pad to these parts to lose weight be harmful or helpful?

REPLY

ANIMAL RINGWORM

J. B. writes: If a horse has ringworm, can its rider contract the infection?

REPLY

Certain types of animal ringworm are transmissible to man but this is unusual.

CLUBFOOT

Mrs. A. writes: Two of my grandchildren were born with clubfoot. Does this disorder run in families?

REPLY

Yes, but the condition is hereditary in less than 20 per cent of the cases.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 11-10

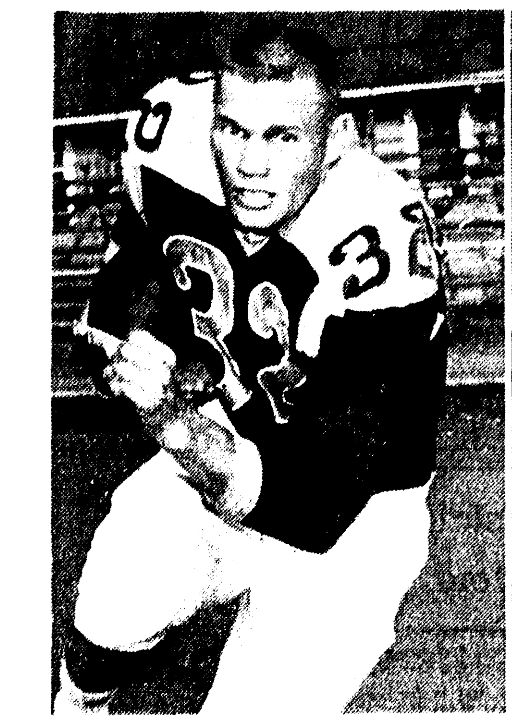
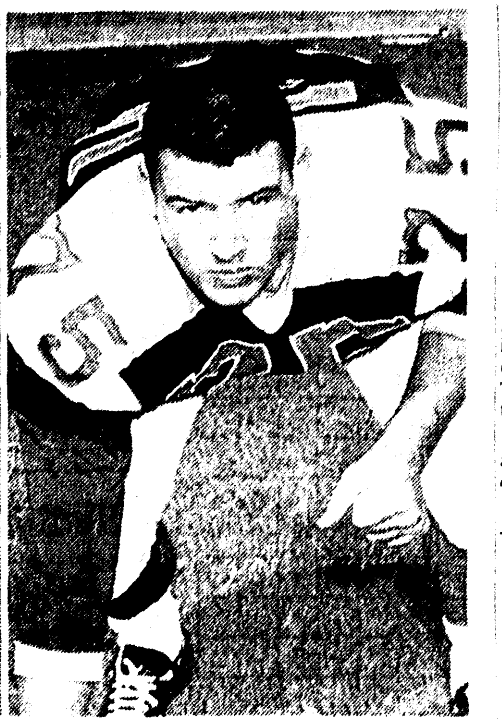
Northeast Entertains Louisiana Tech At 8





HARD-RUNNING Willie Ragan (left) will be one of several outstanding backs Louisiana Tech will have to stop when the Indians and Bulldogs tangle tonight in Brown stadium. Alden Fontenot, one of the state's top prep linemen last year, should replace injured Joe Alewine in the starting lineup tonight. Ragan is averaging 3.28-yards per carry this fall. An ex-Marine, he was an all-district star at Neville. A triple-A all-state choice in 1961, Fontenot tips the scales at 230.

Two Indian Subs Will Miss Contest

Louisiana Tech, an exponent of victory through air power, and Northeast State, a rugged team that favors infantry tactics, clash tonight in Brown Stadium at 8 p.m.

The final Gulf States Conference game of the season for both clubs is not likely to have much effect on the league title, although the Techmen have a slim chance of tying for the crown.

Also riding for the Techmen is a chance to move up in conference standings even if they don't tie for first and an opportunity to insure Coach Joe Aillet of another winning season. Tech is 4-2, with one game to go after the Northeast tilt.

Probable starters:

Northeast	Pos.	La. Tech
T. Lathare (195)	E	J. Griffin (191)
W. Drost (195)	E	C. Bourgeois (206)
A. Fontenot (230)	T	R. Malone (235)

Tech's forte has been a passing attack, engineered by two quarterbacks, a host of good receivers and a line that has given good protection at times. The Bulldog performance has been up and down this year, with good home games against McNeese and Southwestern, but road losses to Southwestern and Northwestern.

Northeast, with a bevy of swift backs operating behind a quick, hard - hitting line, has gained over 1,000 yards on the ground this fall and has not been shutout since opening night. However, the Indians have had trouble containing their foes in the last half, the main reason for a 1-5 record.

The Tribe will be out to repeat a 1956 win over Tech. The 7-0 decision in '56 is the lone Northeast victory over the Bulldogs in nine tries.

The game will be the local swan song for six Northeast gridders — tackle Ross Nolan, guards Larry Rambin and Billy Foster, quarterback Pete Vincent and halfbacks Gordon Salsman and Joe Thrailkill. The Indians end their campaign on the road next weekend against Delta State in Cleveland, while Tech faces Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg.

Two Indians are scheduled to sit out the contest with injuries, alternate team guard Don King and letterman halfback Dean Mann. Tackles Joe Alewine and Jim LaCoste are also injured but are expected to play part-time anyway.

Although Tech throws more often than not from its pro formation, the Bulldogs have a good running game. Last fall Northeast came to Ruston primed to stop quarterback Mickey Slaughter, but got a heavy dose of running instead. A couple of freshmen fullbacks, Wayne Noland and Gerald McDowell, are the leading rushers with shifty Paul Labenne supplying the long distance ground threat.

Freshman Billy Laird gives Tech foes no letup while Slaughter is on the bench and is second among league passers. Ends Jerry Griffin and frosh Wayne Davis and halfbacks Lebenne, Jack Odom and Corky Corkern are the top receivers.

In the line, Tech has a pair of good guards in Richard Enis and Pat Collins and a good center, J. R. Williamson.

Northeast's quarterbacks — senior Pete Vincent and Ronnie Myrick — run often and well. Myrick is second in team rushing and Vincent fourth. Myrick is the leading passer with 21 completions in 47 throws for 191 yards.

Tailback Ken Newton has gained the most yards rushing, 256, of any Tribe back while his understudy, rookie Robert Payne, has the best average on the club, 5.73. Newton is still favoring a shoulder injured two weeks ago and Payne may start.

Wingback Salsman, a good pass receiver, and fullback Devone Payne are the other likely starters in the Northeast backfield.

Nolan, guards Larry Rambin and Billy Foster and end Wendell Drost have been outstanding in the Northeast line.

Tech uses the three-team system with one two-way unit, another concentrating on offense and the other on defense. Northeast Coach Jack Rowan opened the campaign with the three-platoon system but has leaned toward alternate units in the past few games.

CHARLIE BOURGEOIS, Louisiana Tech junior end from Sulphur caught four passes for 64-yards against Southeastern last week to really come on his own as a receiver. Bourgeois, who also had his best defensive effort this season, now has eight receptions for 119 yards.

HOMECOMING

Wild Hogs Hosts In SWC Crucial

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (Special) — The largest Homecoming crowd in Razorback history, an estimated 33,000, is expected to completely fill Razorback Stadium this Saturday for the 38th meeting between Arkansas and Rice. For the fourth consecutive year the Porkers find themselves in the thick of a Southwest Conference title race — but needing this Homecoming game to stay alive. It hasn't been easy before the home folks for Arkansas — and the memory of recent Razorback Stadium losses still lingers.

Although Homecoming under the coaching of Frank Broyles has turned out to be a festive occasion for returning grads (with four consecutive wins), even Broyles has enjoyed only one perfect year at the home field. The Owls battered Arkansas in 1958, 24-0; Baylor staggered the Porkers in 1960, 28-14 (leading at one time, 28-0); and Texas rolled to a 33-7 verdict last season. The 1959 season produced narrow wins over TCU and Texas A&M in conference play.

Arkansas' trio of SWC championships can be traced to this Rice series as much as any one game. It was a come - from - behind 14-10 victory at Houston in 1959 that started that serious title drive; the Razorback defense slammed the door in 1960 while Mickey Cissell booted a field goal in the last 16 - seconds of play for a 3-0 win; and Jesse Branch led the Porkers to an impressive 10-0 victory in the mud at Houston last year.

Razorback statistics improved with each game. Rice held a 308 to 202 - yard advantage in 1959; the Porkers took the upper hand in 1960, 282 to 178 - yards; and last year's game was convincing — 343 yards for Arkansas to 77 for the Owls.

The 1962 meeting finds many similarities — in personnel and in attack. And, strangely enough, the two have met only one common opponent at this late date — the University of Texas. Rice tied the Longhorns, 14-14; while Arkansas met its only defeat in that game, 7-3. You start with their quarterbacking — where Arkansas' Billy Moore, rated a solid All - American choice, meets Randy Kerbow and Walter win on passing alone.

More than likely, however, both Broyles and Jesse Neely will call on their heavy guns for the basic part of their offense. The Razorbacks match Danny Brabham and Jesse Branch (rated 2-3 behind Moore in SWC rushing) against Rice's powerful fullbacks — Paul Piper and Russell Wayt. And at end the battle will be between senior Gene Raesz (with 19 caught for 240 yards) aginst sophomore Razorback Jerry Lamb (18 for 249 yards).

Oddly enough, Arkansas will start two Houston products — Lamb and center Ronnie Caveness (both from Smiley high school); while the Owls have only one hometown boy in the starting lineup — tailback Ronnie Graham.

Cub's New Man To Take Charge Wrigley States

CHICAGO (AP)—Owner Phillip K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs, who Thursday fired Charlie Metro as head coach, said Friday he had a new candidate in mind to be "in charge" of the Cubs next season.

"I can't tell you who he is, but he was not in baseball last season," said Wrigley.

"There will be no announcement until we find out whether we can get this man."

Asked if the new man would be a manager in baseball's accepted terminology, Wrigley replied.

"If it makes you happy, call him that."

Wrigley said Metro, who was the Cubs' head coach on Wrigley's novel college of coaches from June 5 until the end of the season, was dismissed because "he didn't get along with the players."

The outspoken Metro, regarded the strong man of Wrigley's 12-man coaching board, reportedly failed to get a new contract because he disagreed over the club's rotating system of coaches.

Wrigley said. "We've been looking for a take-charge guy. We thought from Metro's past experience that he was the man. You can lead a man to water, to paraphrase the old saying, but you can't make him drink. Players don't have to love the man in charge, but they should respect him."

Granger Leads Maroon Frosh Past LSU 20-13

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP)—Hoyle Granger scored two touchdowns to pace Mississippi State freshmen to a 20-13 victory over Louisiana State frosh Friday.

Granger opened the scoring in the first period on a one yard plunge and scored the third TD in the second quarter on a 6 yard run. Billy Blocker tallied the second Maroon touchdown on a pass from quarterback Wayne Coleman. The play covered 48 yards. Ashby Cook kicked both conversions.

LSU scored in the third period on an 18-yard run by Paul Guidry and in the fourth period on a 15-yard run by Charles Moore. Doug Moreau converted after the first TD.

OVER TULANE

Tennessee Is Favored To Take 1st SEC Win

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee ruled a 3-touchdown favorite Friday to pick up its first Southeastern Conference victory of the season against Tulane Saturday.

The Vols won their last two starts against non-league competition after losing four games in a row to SEC foes. Tulane has lost seven straight this season, including four to conference opponents.

In seeking its first triumph, Tulane is expected to uncork a wide open attack, featuring flankers, spreads, the lonesome end and the shotgun offense. In the latter, the quarterback drops back about seven yards and takes a direct pass from center.

"This sort of attack can be embarrassing if you don't put your defensive men in the correct places," said Vol coach Bowden Wyatt.

Tulane relies chiefly on a passing offense with quarterback Bob Boisvert doing most of the throwing. He's completed 28 of 48 passes. His chief target is end Clem Dellenger, who's caught 28 and leads the SEC in this department.

Tennessee likely will stick to the ground with a single wing attack getting its momentum from the running of tailbacks Mallon Faircloth and Bobby Morton and fullbacks George Canale and Jimmy Sullivan.

The kickoff is at 2 p.m., EST, and the weatherman promises ideal football weather with partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the mid-50s.

WITH CHATTANOOGA

Rebs Should Have Support For Game

UNIVERSITY, Miss. (Special) — Mississippi's Rebels are counting on a full measure of support against Chattanooga here Saturday, and the reasons should be obvious.

First and foremost, they walloped Louisiana State last Saturday night in Baton Rouge and that 15-7 thriller should draw a strong "vote of confidence." The victory knifed a Tiger Stadium string the Bengals had been padding since 1958.

For another factor, the game will be a Homecoming of sorts for Johnny Vaught's team, its first campus appearance this year following six consecutive — and victories — on the road, in Memphis, Jackson and Baton Rouge.

Homeless for seven weeks, actually a full year, Saturday's occasion for the Rebs is long overdue. Their last campus game was staged Nov. 11 a year ago. Then as now, Chattanooga was the party of the second part.

Houston's Cougars were scheduled for an Oct. 6 Homecoming appearance but the U. S. Justice Department sent that game to Jackson.

Coach Scrappy Moore and his Mocs move in with a 4-4 record which includes defeats at the hands of two Southeastern Conference members, Auburn and Tennessee, as well as to Mississippi Southern. Within their own orbit the report is 4-1.

The Ole Miss record against the 'Noogans is 8-1.

Vaught has made good use of Rebel depth in five of the six games recorded and figures to make it a full spread here Saturday. Also, along with Robinson and Jennings in the first lineup, six members of the alternate starters and 11 from off the third club are sophomores headed for their first varsity showing at home.

Brewer Still Holding Cajun's Classic Lead

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Gay Brewer Jr. of Crystal River, Fla., who equaled the course record with an 8 under par 64 in the opening round of the $17,500 Cajun Classic golf tournament, had trouble with his putts Friday and shot a 71 but still held a 3 stroke lead at 135.

John Barnum of Blythefield, Mich., who followed Brewer Thursday with a 68, had a 2-under-par 70 in the second round for a 138 total and second place.

Brewer said he was still hitting the ball well, but his putts weren't dropping as well as in the first round.

Three players tied for the third spot with 139s. They were Al Johnston of Montreal, Canada, Fred Leffingwell of Miami, Fla., and Lionel Hebert of Kern City, Calif.

Hebert, who had a 70 Thursday, is considered a dangerous contender especially because of his familiarity with the Oakbourne Country Club course. Lafayette is his home town.

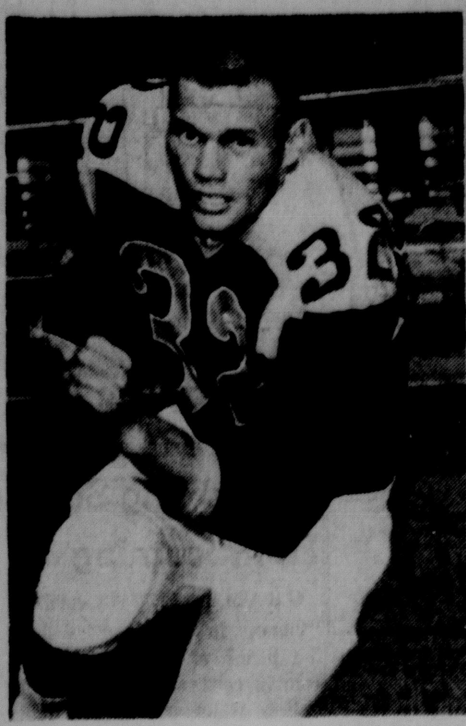
Northeast Entertains Louisiana Tech At 8



HARD-RUNNING Willie Ragan (left) will be one of several outstanding backs Louisiana Tech will have to stop when the Indians and Bulldogs tangle tonight in Brown stadium. Alden Fontenot, one of the state's top prep linemen last year, should replace injured Joe Alewine in the starting lineup tonight. Ragan is averaging 3.28-yards per carry this fall. An ex-Marine, he was an all-district star at Neville. A triple-A all-state choice in 1961, Fontenot tips the scales at 230.

Two Indian Subs Will Miss Contest

Louisiana Tech, an exponent of victory through air power, and Northeast State, a rugged team that favors infantry tactics, clash tonight in Brown Stadium at 8 p.m.

The final Gulf States Conference game of the season for both clubs is not likely to have much effect on the league title, although the Techmen have a slim chance of tying for the crown.

Also riding for the Techmen is a chance to move up in conference standings even if they don't tie for first and an opportunity

Probable starters:

HOMECOMING

Wild Hogs Hosts In SWC Crucial

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (Special) — The largest Homecoming crowd in Razorback history, an estimated 33,000, is expected to completely fill Razorback Stadium this Saturday for the 38th meeting between Arkansas and Rice. For the fourth consecutive year the Porkers find themselves in the thick of a Southwest Conference title race — but needing this Homecoming game to stay alive. The 1959 season produced narrow wins over TCU and Texas A&M in conference play.

Arkansas' trio of SWC championships can be traced to this Rice series as much as any one game. It was a come - from - behind 14-10 victory at Houston in 1959 that started that serious title drive; the Razorback defense slammed the door in 1960 while Mickey Cissell booted a field goal in the last 16 - seconds of play for a 3-0 win; and Jesse Branch led the Porkers to an impressive 10-0 victory in the mud at Houston last year.

Razorback statistics improved with each game. Rice held a 308 to 202 - yard advantage in 1959; the Porkers took the upper hand in 1960, 282 to 178 - yards; and last year's game was convincing — 343 yards for Arkansas to 77 for the Owls.

Cub's New Man To Take Charge Wrigley States

CHICAGO (AP)—Owner Phillip K. Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs, who Thursday fired Charlie Metro as head coach, said Friday he had a new candidate in mind to be "in charge" of the Cubs next season.

"I can't tell you who he is, but he was not in baseball last season," said Wrigley.

"There will be no announcement until we find out whether we can get this man."

Asked if the new man would be a manager in baseball's accepted terminology, Wrigley replied:

"If it makes you happy, call him that."

Wrigley said Metro, who was the Cubs' head coach on Wrigley's novel college of coaches from June 5 until the end of the season, was dismissed because "he didn't get along with the players."

The outspoken Metro, regarded the strong man of Wrigley's 12-man coaching board, reportedly failed to get a new contract because he disagreed over the club's rotating system of coaches.

Wrigley said: "We've been looking for a take-charge guy. We thought from Metro's past experience that he was the man. You can lead a man to water, to paraphrase the old saying, but you can't make him drink. Players don't have to love the man in charge, but they should respect him."

WITH CHATTANOOGA

Rebs Should Have Support For Game

UNIVERSITY, Miss., (Special) — Mississippi's Rebels are counting on a full measure of support against Chattanooga here Saturday, and the reasons should be obvious.

First and foremost, they walloped Louisiana State last Saturday night in Baton Rouge and that 15-7 thriller should draw a strong "vote of confidence." The victory knifed a Tiger Stadium string the Bengals had been padding since 1958.

For another factor, the game will be a Homecoming of sorts for Johnny Vaught's team, its first campus appearance this year following six consecutive — and victories — on the road, in Memphis, Jackson and Baton Rouge.

Homeless for seven weeks, actually a full year, Saturday's occasion for the Rebs is long overdue. Their last campus game was staged Nov. 11 a year ago. Then as now, Chattanooga was the party of the second part.

Houston's Cougars were scheduled for an Oct. 6 Homecoming appearance but the U. S. Justice Department sent that game to Jackson.

Coach Scrappy Moore and his Mocs move in with a 4-4 record which includes defeats at the hands of two Southeastern Conference members, Auburn and Tennessee, as well as to Mississippi Southern. Within their own orbit the report is 4-1.

Eleven senior members of Ole Miss' football group will be in their next - to - final home game and eight of the 11 will hold down berths in Saturday's starting lineup — quarterback Glynn Griffing, tailback Chuck Morris and wingback Louis Guy in the backfield, and ends Wes Sullivan and Woody Dabbs, right tackle Jim Dunaway, right guard Don Dickson and center Richard Ross in the line.

Vaught has made good use of Rebel depth in five of the six games recorded and figures to make it a full spread here Saturday. Also, along with Robinson and Jennings in the first lineup, six members of the alternate starters and 11 from off the third club are sophomores headed for their first varsity showing at home.

Brewer Still Holding Cajun Classic Lead

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Gay Brewer Jr. of Crystal River, Fla., who equaled the course record with an 8 under par 64 in the opening round of the $17,500 Cajun Classic golf tournament, had trouble with his putts Friday and shot a 71 but still held a 3 stroke lead at 135.

John Barnum of Blythefield, Mich., who followed Brewer Thursday with a 68, had a 2-under-par 70 in the second round for a 138 total and second place.

Brewer said he was still hitting the ball well, but his putts weren't dropping as well as in the first round.

Three players tied for the third spot with 139s. They were Al Johnston of Montreal, Canada, Fred Leffingwell of Miami, Fla., and Lionel Hebert of Kern City, Calif.

Hebert, who had a 70 Thursday, is considered a dangerous contender especially because of his familiarity with the Oakbourne Country Club course. Lafayette is his home town.

West Monroe Rips Fair Park By 32-14

West Monroe used a surprisingly potent ground attack to the fullest here Friday night and trampled Fair Park of Shreveport, 32-14, in a 1-AAA contest.

The victory gives Coach Cecil Parkey's Rebels a 1-6 mark for the season and was their third district win against as many losses. The loss pitched Coach Roy Wilson's Indians below the five hundred mark in conference play at 2-3.

The game, one of the Rebels' strongest of the year, featured the bull-like rushes of big Mike Shepherd, who scored two West Monroe touchdowns, and the fine throwing arm of Fair Park quarterback David Worthington.

Shepherd rambled for 107 yards to lead all rushers, while Worthington threw 27 times and completed 14 for 148 yards. Several more of Worthington's tosses were right on mark, but his receivers couldn't hold on to them.

Chuck Crawford, Woody Woodcock and Bubba Jones tallied the Rebels' other scores against the Indians and Bobby Brice accounted for both of West Monroe's successful extra points.

The Rebels' victory came without the services of their fine all-around halfback Charlie VanZile. VanZile, who does West Monroe's punting, much of their pass receiving and leads the team in scoring, was resting in the hospital due to a leg infection. Jerry Green replaced VanZile in the punting department and filled in well, kicking four times for a 37 - yard average.

Although the final score doesn't indicate a close game, the Rebels were behind 7-6, going into the second quarter. After Shepherd scored from 16 yards out with 6:1[illegible] remaining in the opening period Fair Park roared back on a 12 - play drive and took a 7-6 lead following Worthington's one-yard TD plunge and Lynk Carpenter's extra point kick.

The Rebels couldn't be slowed from then on though as they racked up a 26-7 third quarter lead. Fair Park got its final score with 5:44 remaining in the fourth on a four - yard pass play from Worthington to his favorite target, end Tommy Chiles. Carpenter again tacked on the PAT.

West Monroe wasn't satisfied with its 26-14 lead as the final seconds ticked off, and to prove it they added one more score, this one coming on the last scrimmage play of the game with exactly one second remaining on the scoreboard clock. Jones scored this one on a five yard toss from reserve quarterback James Colvin.

The five - play scoring drive was climaxed when Shepherd rammed over from two yards out with 10:00 remaining in the quarter.

Late in the period West Monroe got possession on its own 36. With only 3:01 remaining in the half it looked like the Rebels would go out with a slim 12-7 lead. But Shepherd had other ideas. The converted tackle broke loose for 51 yards on first down before being brought down on the 13 by Steve Schmidt. Two plays later quarterback Dickie Worthey, who played an excellent game, hit Crawford in the end zone for the score. Brice ran the point after and West Monroe carried a 19-7 lead out at intermission.

Late in the third period, Fair Park drove to the Rebels' 19 before yielding the ball on downs. From here West Monroe swiftly drove 81 yards in 10 plays to paydirt. The drive was achieved mostly on the running of halfback Woody Woodcock. The speedy halfback, who saw little offensive action, accounted for 61 of the 81 yards, including the final six.

Woodcock's yardage came on just two tries. With ball resting on West Monroe's 31, Woodcock found running room around the right side of the line and scampered 55 yards before being brought down at the 15. His scoring run came two plays later.

This set the stage for Fair Park's final TD in the fourth quarter and the Rebels' last second tally.

West Monroe stood firm on defense against the Indians, allowing only 51 yards running. In the air, the story was much different though, as Worthington repeatedly connected on passes in long yardage situations. Chiles picked off more than half of Worthington's tosses. The 180 - pound end had a field night, hauling in eight for 64 - yards.

In the rushing department for West Monroe, aside from Shepherd's 107 yards, Brice chipped 78 on 12 carries, Ray Alexander had 74 on 11 tries and Woodcock ran for 79 on six carries.

Pittard, David Jones and Paul Hobgood each picked off a Worthington, and had it not been for those interceptions the complexion of the game may have been entirely different.

Titans Collect 1st Win Of Season

DETROIT (AP)—Jerry Gross, putting on a remarkable show of passing, running and kicking, scored all Detroit's points Friday night as the Titans edged Cincinnati 15-14 for their first football victory this season.

Gross scored on runs of 36 and six yards and booted a 24-yard field goal as the Titans ended an 8-game victory famine, losing their first six games this year.

But it was Gross passing with a wet that set up the three scores, each of which put the Titans into a lead.

He totaled 295 yards for the game, passing for 203 and running for 92 more.

It was the fifth straight win for Bossier and its ninth in 10 games this season. The Bearkats are 4-1 in the district.

Coach Bob Ellen's Lions, who held Bossier to a 12-0 halftime advantage, lost their 10th straight game and ended their league slate with an 0-6 mark.

Ouachita finishes its season against powerful Neville of Monroe next week.

Bossier rolled up 412 - yards in total offense, getting 275 on the ground and 137 in the air. Ouachita netted 74 overland and while quarterback Carl Gilstrap completed 10 of 19 passes for 87 - yards.

Prather was the game's leading rusher, lugging for 154 on only nine carries. Ronnie Hamilton led Ouachita with 54 -yards on 17 trips.

Prather's 62 - yard run opened the scoring with five minutes left in the opening period. The Bearkats added another marker in the final two minutes of the half, scoring on White's 15 - yard pass to Harvill. Ouachita's Larry Lolley through and blocked Bobby New's extra point try.

The home club marched 62-yards for its third score with White getting the TD on a four-yard keeper around end with 7:25 left in the third quarter.

Bossier drove 86 - yards for its fourth score with Prather sprinting the final 32. New then collected his first placement for a 25-0 advantage.

The final touchdown came with 3:50 left after Bossier recovered a fumble at the Ouachita 19. On the first play, White hit Harvill at the five and the Bearkat halfback took it in. New's kick registered the last point.

Syracuse Beats Hawks 101-93 For 1st Place

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse backcourt aces Hal Greer and Larry Costello sparked a late rally that brought the Nats a 101-93 National Basketball Association victory over St. Louis Friday night and lifted Syracuse into first place in the Eastern Division.

The Nats, who have lost only once this season, took over the eastern top spot from the Boston Celtics, who lost to Los Angeles 133-120.

The Nats trailed by one, 89-88, with less than five minutes remaining when Greer and Costello returned after a brief rest and spearheaded the drive that took it out of danger.

Greer hit a jumper, and after John Barnhill scored for St. Louis, Greer and Costello each hit a field goal, putting Syracuse ahead to stay.

DAVID WORTHINGTON, Fair Park's fine quarterback, meets a rough greeting party after gaining two-yards in Friday night's contest at Rebel Stadium in West Monroe. Making the tackle is David Jones (53) and Ray Alexander (41) as Conrad Wiggins (75) comes in to give assistance. West Monroe downed the Indians, 32-14.

West Monroe Rips Fair Park By 32-14

By KEITH PRINCE
World Sports Writer

West Monroe used a surprisingly potent ground attack to the fullest here Friday night and trampled Fair Park of Shreveport, 32-14, in a 1-AAA contest.

The victory gives Coach Cecil Pirkey's Rebels a 4-6 mark for the season and was their third district win against as many losses. The loss pushed Coach Roy Wilson's Indians below the five-hundred mark in conference play at 2-3.

The game, one of the Rebels' strongest of the year, featured the bull - like rushes of big Mike Shepherd, who scored two West Monroe touchdowns, and the fine throwing arm of Fair Park quarterback David Worthington.

Shepherd rambled for 107 yards to lead all rushers, while Worthington threw 27 times and completed 14 for 148 yards. Several more of Worthington's tosses were right on mark, but his receivers couldn't hold on to them.

Chuck Crawford, Woody Woodcock and Bubba Jones tallied the Rebels other scores against the Indians and Bobby Brice accounted for both of West Monroe's successful extra points.

The Rebels' victory came without the services of their fine all-around halfback Charlie VanZile. VanZile, who does West Monroe's punting, much of their pass receiving and leads the team in scoring, was resting in the hospital due to a leg infection. Jerry Green replaced VanZile in the punting department and filled in well, kicking four times for a 37 - yard average.

Although the final score doesn't indicate a close game, the Rebels were behind, 7-6, going into the second quarter. After Shepherd scored from 16 yards out with 6:47 remaining in the opening period, Fair Park roared back on a 12 - play drive and took a 7-6 lead following Worthington's one-yard TD plunge and Lynk Carpenter's extra point kick.

The Rebels couldn't be slowed from then on though as they racked up a 20-7 third quarter lead. Fair Park got its final score with 5:44 remaining in the fourth on a four - yard pass play from Worthington to his favorite target, end Tommy Chiles. Carpenter again tacked on the PAT.

West Monroe wasn't satisfied with its 26-14 lead as the final seconds ticked off, and to prove it they added one more score, this one coming on the last scrimmage play of the game with exactly one second remaining on the scoreboard clock. Jones scored this one on a five yard toss from reserve quarterback James Colvin.

In the second period with Fair Park leading, 7-6, the Rebels got a break when end David Jones picked off a Worthington pass at the visitors 17 - yard line to set up West Monroe's second score. The five - play scoring drive was climaxed when Shepherd rammed over from two yards out with 10:00 remaining in the quarter.

Late in the period West Monroe got possession on its 36. With only 3:04 remaining in the half it looked like the Rebels would go out with a slim 12-7 lead. But Shepherd had other ideas. The converted tackle broke loose for 51 yards on his final carry before being brought down on the 13 by Steve Schmidt. Two plays later quarterback Dickie Worthey, who played an excellent game, hit Crawford in the end zone for the score. Brice ran the point after and West Monroe carried a 19-7 lead into intermission.

Late in the third period, Fair Park drove to the Rebels' 19 before yielding the ball on downs. From here West Monroe swiftly drove 81 yards in 10 plays to pay-dirt. The drive was achieved mostly on the running of halfback Woody Woodcock. The speedy halfback, who saw little offensive action, accounted for 61 of the 81 yards including the final six.

Woodcock's yardage came on just two tries. With ball resting on West Monroe's 31, Woodcock found running room around the right side of the line and scampered 55 yards before being brought down at the 15. His scoring run came two plays later.

This set he stage for Fair Park's final TD in the fourth quarter and the Rebels' last second tally.

West Monroe stood firm on defense against the Indians, allowing only 51 yards running. In the air, the story was much different though, as Worthington repeatedly connected on passes in long yardage situations. Chiles picked off more than half of Worthington's tosses. The 180 - pound end had a field night, hauling in eight for 64 - yards.

In the rushing department for West Monroe, aside from Shepherd's 107 yards, Brice chipped 78 on 12 carries, Ray Alexander had 74 on 11 tries and Woodcock ran for 79 on six carries.

Such men as Glenn Carter, Scotty Pace, Conrad Wiggins, Ricky Riser and Larry Pittard led the fired - up Rebel defense.

Pittard, David Jones and Paul Hobgood each picked off a Worthington, and had it not been for those interceptions the complexion of the game may have been entirely different.

Medical Assistants Hold Monthly Dinner Meeting

The Ouachita Parish Association of Medical Assistants held their monthly dinner meeting at the Highland Park Country Club on Wednesday, November 7. The table decorations in a fall motif were highlighted by burning candles in a tree candelabra accented with polished red apples and berries.

During the business session conducted by Mrs. Simrall, committees were appointed and plans made for the Christmas party to be held in December. New members welcomed into the association were Mrs. Beatrice Randall, Mrs. Fannie Potier and Mrs. Mary Jones.

Members attending the meeting were Mrs. Myrtice Eady, Mrs. Barbara Bell, Mrs. Lynnell Roark, Mrs. Bonnie Baker, Miss Sally Peptone, Mrs. Beatrice Pringle, Mrs. Elizabeth Brown, Miss McLaon, Mrs. St. John, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Shaddix, Mrs. Pittman, Mrs. Simrall, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Randall, Mrs. Potier and Mrs. Latham.

Tournament Plans Made

The tournament committee of the Ouachita Duplicate Bridge Club has announced that preparations for the annual two session open pair championship have been completed. The game will be held at the Virginia Hotel.

Registration will begin at 1 p.m., and the first session will start promptly at 1:30. At 5:30 there will be a cocktail party, and at 6:00, dinner. The first session will be an elimination round, and those pairs qualifying will play in the final session which begins at 7:30. For those who were not quite so fortunate, there will be a consolation game. Handsome trophies will be awarded to winners of first and second places, and to first place in the Consolation.

Last year's winners are expected to be here from Shreveport, and indications are that there will be an excellent attendance from out of town.

HINTS FROM Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Can anyone suggest a way to clean plastic refrigerator bowls? They seem to retain the odor of previously stored food. Hot water makes them feel greasy. Mine are new but I am about to throw them out. (Anyone know? Heloise)

I like to use sponges instead of washcloths for taking baths. The soap really suds and they are so soft plus the children think it's fun to wash with them.

Being a housewife, mother and nurse I try to keep my work caught up and have found . . . since I detest ironing . . . if I will leave the ironing board up in the laundry room, I can always find time to do a small daily ironing so I don't have to face a week-ly one.

I am saving all of your article for my little girl . . . what reference!

GINNIE POLLENZ

DEAR HELOISE:

My cedar chest (it was my hope chest!) makes such a nice toy box. After all . . . that's what I was "hoping" for all along!

Please remind your readers often. Put plastic caps (they only cost ten cents in the dime store) or masking tape over electrical outlets. This might save a child a good shock.

ELIZABETH BURFORD

DEAR HELOISE:

I wonder if any of your readers can suggest a proper method to remove smoke from fireplace?

I have tried everything, even down to dangerous acids and have never had any success. We who have fireplaces would be most appreciative of any answer or home remedy that anyone might have.

MRS. D. EDMONSON

DEAR FOLKS:

So many women have this problem. If any of you have the answer to cleaning any type of fireplace . . . brick, flagstone, etc., please drop us a line. This is not seasonal. Even though the fireplace is used in cold weather, the stain is there year round! Please, send your letters to Heloise, c-o this paper.

Love,
HELOISE

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've always had a private telephone line until recently. Now I'm on a party line — the other party is the family next door.

They have a 17 - year - old son who screams "Hey, get off the line!" whenever I pick up the receiver. What possible interest could I have in listening to this boy jabber with his high school friends?

After being shouted at and insulted several times I sat down and wrote a letter to the boy's father. I received no reply. If someone had written a similar letter to me I would have been over immediately to discuss the problem.

Now whenever I encounter a member of that family they turn their heads. Do you feel I should not have written the letter? What are your views on parents who take their children's side — right or wrong? — GRAND RAPIDS

DEAR GRAND: The father should have responded to your letter as a matter of courtesy. Perhaps, too, you should have discussed the problem face to face with his mother or father.

Parents do their children no favor when they take their side against adults who have legitimate complaints. This boy was clearly disrespectful.

In most cities the telephone company will change your party line partner if you have a good reason for requesting it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am engaged to a wonderful guy. Carl is very stubborn and he can make white look like black if he sets his mind to it.

The other evening he was over for dinner. Several relatives dropped in later and we were all seated in the living room. I looked up and saw Carl reading the newspaper. I gave him the eye but it did no good. He continued to read. Then he started to work the crossword puzzle. His only contribution to the conversation was an occasional sentence, such as, "Do you know a three letter word for rodent?"

When we were alone I told Carl I was appalled by his bad manners. He claims the company didn't come to see him and furthermore he was bored listening to family conversation.

Is he right or wrong? — CELESTE

DEAR CELESTE: He's wrong. It's insulting to guests to have a newspaper read in one's face. P.S. Tell him a four - letter word for Carl is rude.

THE NEWLY formed Primrose Path Garden Club selected the above ladies to serve as officers for the 1962-63 club year. From left to right are Mrs. Jack R. 4 Governorships In Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The razor-thin margins separating rival candidates for governor in four states may mean that the outcome won't be finally determined for weeks.

In two of the states, Minnesota and Rhode Island, no unofficial winner has yet been decided. Recounts are possible in those two states and in Maine and Massachusetts.

Minnesota—In the seesaw race for governor, Republican incumbent Elmer L. Andersen, who overnight had trailed Democratic Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag by 5 votes, edged into a 171-vote lead on the basis of revised figures from two counties.

Counties continued canvasses which in many cases changed the previously uncanvassed county total on the basis of which The Associated Press unofficial tabulation gave Andersen 619,942, Rolvaag 619,771.

Two small precincts remained unreported. Both were in Lake of the Woods County, a remote chunk of wilderness jutting from Canada and accessible from the rest of Minnesota only by air or water. County officials estimated the total vote in the two precincts at about 30, normally predominantly Republican.

Rhode Island—Incumbent Democratic Gov. John A. Notte Jr. held a lead of 47 votes over Republican John A. Chaffee, with absentee ballots still to be counted and the canvass of voting machine tabulations not completed.

Massachusetts—The final unofficial tally pointed toward a victory by 3,734 votes for Democrat Endicott Peabody over the incumbent Republican governor, John A. Volpe. Both candidates for governor took out petitions for recounts. Ballots and voting machines were under police guard.

Maine—The losing Democratic candidate for governor, Maynard C. Dolloff, has said he will seek a recount of the tally which gave Republican Gov. John H. Reed reelection by 465 votes.

South Dakota—Incumbent Republican Sen. Joe Bottum said the GOP felt there had been substantial voting irregularities in Tuesday's balloting, which gave his Democratic opponent, George McGovern, a 201-vote victory.

Alabama—State GOP Chairman John Grenier said he has evidence of voting irregularities that may lead to a challenge of Democratic Sen. Lister Hill's 6,000-vote win over GOP Senate candidate James D. Martin.

Hoffa Loses New Motion For Mistrial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Defense attorneys made an unsuccessful attempt Friday to get Teamsters boss James R. Hoffa's $1-million conspiracy trial dismissed on grounds the jury had been prejudiced by hearing testimony previously given before a grand jury.

The defense motion for a mistrial was the fifth such bid federal Judge William E. Miller has rejected since he started hearing the case three weeks ago.

Hoffa's attorneys objected to testimony given by Detroit attorney Albert Matheson, a key witness in the case.

In rejecting the motion Miller noted that the statements Matheson made before the grand jury which indicted Hoffa were in conflict with his testimony at the trial.

Miller noted Matheson was a "hostile witness" and said the prosecution had the right to cross-examine him, using the grand jury testimony for the purpose of contradiction.

Judge Miller then adjourned court until Tuesday. He noted Monday was a legal holiday and that "everyone needs some rest."

The government put two witnesses on the stand Friday to show that Hoffa and the late Owen (Bert) Brennan received $1,068,057 in violation of the Taft-Hartley law from Commercial Carriers, a nationwide automobile transport firm indicted along with Hoffa.

The payoffs were allegedly made over a ten-year period through Test Fleet, Inc., a truck leasing business in which the wives of Hoffa and Brennan held stock in their maiden names.

Judge Clears Art Carney Of Driving Charge

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Art Carney was cleared Friday of a drunken-driving charge for lack of evidence. He was arrested after a minor traffic accident Thursday.

As Carney took an elevator down from the courtroom, an unidentified man asked him for his autograph.

"What a sense of humor," Carney remarked wryly.

"I love to see you in the sewer—on television that is," the man said.

Carney, 44, gained national fame as a sewer worker, Ed Norton, on Jackie Gleason's television comedy show. Currently, he is starring on Broadway in "Take Her, She's Mine." His understudy took over his role Thursday night.

Carney's sports car rammed the rear of a taxi at Broadway and 70th St., shortly before noon.

Cab driver Edward Cherry, 31, testified in criminal court: "I pulled over to exchange credentials. Then I saw the officer and called him over. I saw they were having a light hassle. Carney talked slurrish like and his walk was a little unsteady."

The officer referred to by Cherry was John Donangelo, who signed a complaint after Cherry had refused to do so.

Donangelo quoted Carney as telling him at the station house he had had a couple of beers but not until he had eaten breakfast. The officer also said Carney told him he had been under medical treatment for nervous tension, and had had no sleep the night before the accident.

Stamp Dealer May Cash In On Printing Error

BOSTON (UPI) — A Boston stamp dealer has found what he believes is the most important — and valuable — stamp printing error since the famous upside-down 24-cent airmail stamps of 1918.

The dealer has a sheet of 50 stamps issued last month to commemorate the opening of a Panama Canal bridge, in which the United States government printer left out the bridge.

No exact value can yet be placed on the philatelic find but one guess is that eventually the defective stamps may command $500,000 in the wild world of stamp collectors. One of the 1918 airmail stamps, in which a plane was printed upside down, recently was auctioned for $9,250.

The lucky dealer is Henry E. Harris, president of the H. E. Harris Co. The U.S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing ran the 4-cent Canal Zone stamps through one press to print a black and grey background showing the Western Hemisphere. But it apparently failed to send the stamps through a color press to add the silver-colored bridge.

Jury Absolves Tobacco Firm In Cancer Suit

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A federal court jury Friday absolved the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. of blame for the lung cancer contracted by a Pittsburgh carpenter who said he got the disease from smoking Chesterfield cigarettes.

The panel of eight women and four men deliberated 11 hours before reaching a decision in the court of Judge John L. Miller.

The $1,250,000 damage suit against the firm was brought by Otto Pritchard, 64. The test case, Pritchard's second against the company, had attracted national attention.

Earlier Judge Miller had dismissed Pritchard's suit for $1 million in punitive damages. The case continued with the damages reduced to $213,000.

4 Governorships In Doubt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The razor-thin margins separating rival candidates for governor in four states may mean that the outcome won't be finally determined for weeks.

In two of the states, Minnesota and Rhode Island, no unofficial winner has yet been decided. Recounts are possible in those two states and in Maine and Massachusetts.

Minnesota—In the seesaw race for governor, Republican incumbent Elmer L. Andersen, who overnight had trailed Democratic Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag by 5 votes, edged into a 171-vote lead on the basis of revised figures from two counties.

Counties continued canvasses which in many cases changed the previously uncanvassed county total on the basis of which The Associated Press unofficial tabulation gave Andersen 619,942, Rolvaag 619,771.

Two small precincts remained unreported. Both were in Lake of the Woods County, a remote chunk of wilderness jutting from Canada and accessible from the rest of Minnesota only by air or water. County officials estimated the total vote in the two precincts at about 30, normally predominantly Republican.

Rhode Island—Incumbent Democratic Gov. John A. Notte Jr. held a lead of 47 votes over Republican John A. Chaffee, with absentee ballots still to be counted and the canvass of voting machine tabulations not completed.

Massachusetts—The final unofficial tally pointed toward a victory by 3,734 votes for Democrat Endicott Peabody over the incumbent Republican governor, John A. Volpe. Both candidates for governor took out petitions for recounts. Ballots and voting machines were under police guard.

South Dakota—Incumbent Republican Sen. Joe Bottum said the GOP felt there had been substantial voting irregularities in Tuesday's balloting, which gave his Democratic opponent, George McGovern, a 201-vote victory.

Alabama—State GOP Chairman John Grenier said he has evidence of voting irregularities that may lead to a challenge of Democratic Sen. Lister Hill's 6,000-vote win over GOP Senate candidate James D. Martin.

Stock Values Soar In Late Buying Spree

NEW YORK (UPI)—A late buying spree Friday sent stocks shooting to their best levels since two trading days before the big May 28 plunge.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 6.99 to 616.13—its best level since 622.56 was touched on May 24 of this year.

Standard & Poor's 500 stocks rose 0.46 and trading totaled 4,340,000 shares compared with 4,880,000 on Thursday.

A total of 1,281 shares were sent over the tape of which 817 advanced and 269 declined — 10 to new 1962 highs and 3 to new lows.

Chemicals, electronics and aircrafts paced the advance with good support also coming from rails, oils and drugs.

In the chemicals, Du Pont rose 3¼, Allied 1⅛, Union Carbide 1¼, Eastman Kodak 1½ and United Carbon 2. Grumman tacked on ¾ after receiving a $350 million space contract for the Lunar module project. Elsewhere in this group, Douglas rose 1½, Boeing 1⅝, and General Dynamics 1.

Among the electronics, IBM jumped 6, Beckman 2¼, RCA 1⅛, and Consolidated Electronics 2. A few tobaccos weakened with Philip Morris off ⅜ and Liggett & Myers, trading ex-dividend, off ¼. The company, which was involved in a damage suit linking smoking to lung cancer, was acquitted after the close of the market.

Steels firmed and Chrysler rose 1½ in a firm motor section. Among the blue chips, Alcoa tacked on 1⅜. The company has withdrawn its published price on soft extrusion billet and will sell the product on a negotiated price basis.

The D-J rails were up 1.80, chiefly reflecting gains of 1⅛ in Great Northern Railway and 1 apiece in Illinois Central and Louisville & Nashville. Utilities showed a gain of 0.40.

Brunswick topped the most active list, up 1¾, on a turnover of 151,200 shares. This was followed by Sperry Rand up 1⅜, Gillette up 1, General Motors off ⅜, and Westinghouse.

Prices on the American Exchange were also higher on a turnover of 1,050,000 shares compared with 940,000 in the previous session. Featured on the AMEX were Anken Chemical up 1¼, Paddington up 1⅛ and Kirby Petroleum off 2¼. Dissident stockholders failed in an attempt to gain 7 of Kirby's 11 board seats during a proxy fight.

Mother, Son Are Elected To Congress

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Republican team of Bolton & Bolton of Ohio—only mother and son combination in Congress' history —is getting ready to set up shop in Washington again after a six-year absence.

"He paddles his own canoe," Rep. Frances P. Bolton said Friday when asked if her son, Oliver P. Bolton, 45, follows her voting patterns.

Mrs. Bolton, spry and bubbling at 77, won her 13th election to Congress on Tuesday. Her son, a two-term congressman who bowed out in 1956 because of a heart ailment, goes back by a margin of 1,500 votes in the adjoining Cleveland area 11th District. He defeated Democratic incumbent Robert E. Cook.

Like any mother, Mrs. Bolton is proud of her son, youngest of her three boys. "Naturally, I'm very happy that he'll be back in the House again and that we'll be together," she said. "We don't consult at all and never have on the way we vote."

Mrs. Bolton will be the senior GOP member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee — an assignment she feels will keep her jumping.

"With a busy session coming up, I don't know how much I'll be able to see my son, but we will be working in the same city at least and should get together more than we have in Ohio," she said.

Bolton had practiced some law and published the Dover (Ohio) Daily Reporter and the West Lake County News-Herald of nearby Willoughby until he announced his candidacy eight months ago.

His heart condition has completely healed, Bolton said. "I'm in excellent shape, except for the strains of the campaign, and ready to go," he added.

His interests lie in economic affairs, Bolton said.

"Mother is much more internationally minded. There is some difference in our thinking, but I wouldn't want to say I'm more of a conservative or that she is more liberal. It's a little hard to define."

Mrs. Bolton, often called the richest woman in Congress, was married in 1907 to Rep. Chester C. Bolton. When he died in October 1939, his wife won his seat in a special election. Her latest triumph was by a better than 2-1 margin.

Her vitality amazes younger colleagues. She disclosed on her 75th birthday that she often started her day with yoga exercises which included standing on her head.

WITHIN FEW YEARS

U.S. Plans Moon Spacecraft Tests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the not too distant future, a glass-domed contraption resembling a giant bug will come down from the sky and land on the desert outside White Sands, N. M.

The spacecraft will not be from another planet. It will carry a couple of U. S. astronauts making a test of a vehicle they hope to take to the moon.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) announced this week that it was negotiating a $350 million contract with the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. to develop the craft. Actual tests will take place in the next three or four years.

Sometime before 1970 and possibly as early as 1964, a three-man Apollo rocket will be launched from earth into orbit around the moon. There, with two American astronauts aboard, the moon bug will detach itself from the mother ship.

It will spiral down towards the moon's surface and, with retro-rockets blazing, hover in space until its pilots have picked a landing spot. Then it will ease down to a gentle landing on its skid-like legs and sit quietly until the explorers are ready to blast off.

With the mission finished, the two-man team will rendezvous in space with the mother craft and go back aboard. Leaving the moon bug in the moon's gravitational pull, the explorers then will rocket home to earth.

But long before this can be done, the Apollo spacecraft and its lunar landing bug must go through exhaustive tests at White Sands.

A rocket called Little Joe 2 will power Apollo models into up-and-down flights to test their sturdiness, their pilot escape equipment and the parachute systems for bringing them safely back to earth.

The Apollo craft which eventually goes to the moon will consist of a five-ton "command" section, a 25-ton part carrying supplies and propulsion equipment and the 12-ton bug.

White House Waging War On Starlings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House confirmed Friday what anyone in the neighborhood with jumpy nerves already knew. It's waging a war against starlings with an electronic wailing machine.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger finally provided an official explanation of what all that noise from a tree on the White House grounds is for. It's for the birds.

The fact that the White House is trying to overcome a starling problem became known unofficially several days ago. Word didn't leak out. It screeched out from a loud-speaker struck in a high fork of a tree just off Pennsylvania Avenue.

Under persistent questioning by newsmen, Salinger disclosed the details.

"We have had a problem for some time with starlings who have created a nuisance in front of the White House," Salinger said.

"By playing a record of a distressed starling, we are attempting to discourage other starlings from invading the premises."

Salinger emphasized that the problem had burdened Republican as well as Democratic administrations.

The distress call of a starling, he confided, was recorded on tape by some ornithologist in the National Park Service.

White House police play the tape in one of the guard houses on Pennsylvania Avenue. The machine is hooked up with the loud-speaker which police ordinarily use to direct traffic to and from the front door of the executive mansion when large social gatherings are held.

The sound, amplified many times, is a distressingly high-pitched wail that would scare off a human if not a starling. And Salinger said it is working well on the birds.

Someone wanted to know why other starlings flee when they hear an SOS from one of their brethren. It seems that starlings are really chicken.

"They go away and don't come near the area," Salinger said.

Injured Couple Still Serious After Accident

Delbert Davis, 29, and his wife, Lola Mae, 25, West Monroe residents, remained in serious condition Friday night as a result of injuries suffered in a car-truck collision Wednesday.

The Davis' five-month-old daughter, Linda Sue, was killed in the accident.

Their other two children were hospitalized with injuries but are expected to be released today from St. Francis Hospital. They are Rene, 2, and Rickey, 4.

Davis was in a semi - conscious condition Friday but was thought to be improving. Mrs. Davis' condition also was believed to be slightly improved. She is suffering from head injuries, broken jaw, broken arm, crushed pelvis, internal injuries and two severed tendrons in her right hand.

Funeral services for Linda Sue will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Luna Methodist Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery, under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home.

The accident occurred Wednesday about 3 p.m. when the small foreign car in which the Davis family was riding was in collision with a truck driven by Henry Anders, 57, of Chatham at Natchitoches Road and Jewel Street. Anders was charged with negligent homicide, negligent injury and improper brakes.

India Weapons Airlift To End

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. airlift of arms urgently required by India to repel Chinese Communist invaders is expected to be completed by next Monday.

Defense Department authorities making this known Friday, said India has not yet submitted any new requests for arms from the United States. It was indicated, however, that if such a request is made, the airlift may be extended.

The value of light infantry weapons, ammunition and transport and communications equipment which began pouring into Indian bases one week ago is estimated to be around $5 million.

South Viet Nam Ends Relations With Laotians

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—The government of South Viet Nam has broken relations with Laos because of the Laotian coalition government's recognition of Communist North Viet Nam, it was announced Friday.

A government communique said that the Vietnamese embassy in the Laotian capital of Vientiane "ceased to function" as of Thursday when the North Vietnamese ambassador presented his credentials to King Savang Vathana.

Diplomats here explained this was tantamount to a break of relations, and there is no possibility South Viet Nam will retain a consulate in Laos.

South Viet Nam became the second nation to sever relations with Laos following Laotian recognition of communist regimes. Nationalist China broke when Laos recognized Communist China.

The Saigon government is negotiating with Japan to have that nation represent South Vietnamese interests in Laos, where there are 30,000 citizens of South Viet Nam.

Gov. Andersen In Slender Win

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Two remote northwoods precincts, the last to report, Friday night gave Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen a 26-3 vote margin in his race for re-election with Democratic Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag.

Despite this gain, a 100-vote error uncovered in a southern county pared Andersen's margin to a meager 51.

Sen. Goldwater Speaks Highly Of Rockefeller

SANTA CLARA, Calif (AP)— Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona surveyed the field Friday of 1964 Republican presidential possibilities and spoke highly of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, usually viewed as a liberal.

"Rockefeller is much closer to the conservatives than most conservatives want to admit," Goldwater said in an interview.

He said Michigan's Gov.-elect George Romney has no political philosophy and added "Romney ran outside the party organization. One Eisenhower in a decade is enough."

He sees Pennsylvania Gov.-elect William Scranton, whom he regards as a fellow conservative, as a vice-presidential candidate in 1964.

Of himself as a presidential possibility, Goldwater said simply, "I'm not running."

Goldwater spoke at the dedication of the new $1-million James Dunne Residence Hall at the University of Santa Clara and received the honorary degree of doctor of letters.

Tension Mounts On Plebiscite Issue In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—New political tension mounted in Brazil Friday with pro and anti-government factions mustering strength for a showdown on alleged official efforts to cancel a scheduled Jan. 6 plebiscite on the country's future political status.

Former President Juscelino Kubitschek said he will "fight with all means possible" any government attempt to cancel the plebiscite in which the nation will decide whether to continue the present parliamentary system or return to the presidential system.

President Joao Goulart met with his cabinet to discuss the scheduled plebiscite. Earlier, a public statement by Justice Minister Joao Mangabeira said the plebiscite should be cancelled because it would "cost too much."

Previous estimates indicated the vote will cost approximately $2 million.

Some observers speculated that Goulart's opposition to the plebiscite is based on fear that a small voter turnout would not suffice to return the country t[o] presidential form of governm[ent] a fight which he has carrie[d] incessantly for the pas[t] months.

FBI Keeping Secret Group Under Watch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Govern[-] ment investigators have bee[n] alerted to a new secret societ[y] bent on discouraging James [H.] Meredith's continued studies at th[e] University of Mississippi, informe[d] sources said Friday.

These sources said the FBI [is] maintaining a close watch on th[e] group.

They said it is composed mai[n-] ly of students opposing Meredith[']s presence as the first known N[e-] gro student in the history of t[he] university at Oxford, Miss.

One government source sa[id] that some administration officia[ls] had proposed that the FBI inf[il-] trate the underground organiz[a-] tion but the agency had balked [at] the idea.

The FBI declined to comment [on] its role in any surveillance of t[he] organization. But it was und[er-] stood that the investigative ag[en-] cy had based its refusal to pl[ace] one of its members in the sec[ret] society on an expressed relu[ct-] ance to extend such underco[ver] activities to a university camp[us]. It was said FBI officials w[ere] concerned about possible critici[sm] on grounds that such a m[ove] would be a violation of acade[mic] freedom and might be resen[ted] by university officials.

Edwin Guthman, Justice Dep[art-] ment information officer, said [he] had heard reports about an un[der-] ground segregation group at [the] university, but he discounted [re-] ports that its members had vo[wed] to inflict bodily injury upon M[ere-] dith himself.

Justice Department officials [said] also Meredith's abrupt depar[ture] from the university Friday re[sult-] ed from his desire to ease [the] stress under which he has [been] during much of his five-week [stay] there.

"He usually leaves on Frida[y for] the weekend, anyway," said [Nich-] olas Deb. Katzenbach. "This [time] he just decided to leave a [little] earlier. He's been under [a lot of] tension and I think it's unders[tand-] able that he might want t[o get] away a little earlier this w[eek."]

Stock Values Soar In Late Buying Spree

NEW YORK (UPI)—A late buying spree Friday sent stocks shooting to their best levels since two trading days before the big May 28 plunge.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 6.99 to 616.13—its best level since 622.56 was touched on May 24 of this year.

Standard & Poor's 500 stocks rose 0.46 and trading totaled 4,-340,000 shares compared with 4,-880,000 on Thursday.

A total of 1,281 shares were sent over the tape of which 817 advanced and 269 declined — 10 to new 1962 highs and 3 to new lows.

Chemicals, electronics and aircrafts paced the advance with good support also coming from rails, oils and drugs.

In the chemicals, Du Pont rose 3¾, Allied 1¼, Union Carbide 1¾, Eastman Kodak 1½ and United Carbon 2. Grumman tacked on ¾ after receiving a $350 million space contract for the Lunar module project. Elsehwere in this group, Douglas rose 1½, Boeing 1⅝, and General Dynamics 1.

Among the electronics, IBM jumped 6, Beckman 2¼, RCA 1¼, and Consolidated Electronics 2. A few tobaccos weakened with Philip Morris off ⅜ and Liggett & Myers, trading ex-dividend, off ¼. The company, which was involved in a damage suit linking smoking to lung cancer, was acquitted after the close of the market.

Steels firmed and Chrysler rose 1½ in a firm motor section. Among the blue chips, Alcoa tacked on 1⅝. The company has withdrawn its published price on soft extrusion billet and will sell the product on a negotiated price basis.

The D-J rails were up 1.80, chiefly reflecting gains of 1⅛ in Great Northern Railway and 1 apiece in Illinois Central and Louisville & Nashville. Utilities showed a gain of 0.40.

Brunswick topped the most active list, up 1¾, on a turnover of 151,200 shares. This was followed Sperry Rand up 1⅜, Gillette up 1, General Motors off ⅜, and Westinghouse.

Prices on the American Exchange were also higher on a turnover of 1,050,000 shares compared with 940,000 in the previous session. Featured on the AMEX were Anken Chemical up 1⅜, Paddington up 1⅜ and Kirby Petroleum off 2⅞. Dissident stockholders failed in an attempt to gain 7 of Kirby's 11 board seats during a proxy fight.

Mother, Son Are Elected To Congress

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The Republican team of Bolton & Bolton of Ohio—only mother and son combination in Congress' history —is getting ready to set up shop in Washington again after a six-year absence.

"He paddles his own canoe," Rep. Frances P. Bolton said Friday when asked if her son, Oliver P. Bolton, 45, follows her voting patterns.

Mrs. Bolton, spry and bubbling at 77, won her 13th election to Congress on Tuesday. Her son, a two-term congressman who bowed out in 1956 because of a heart ailment, goes back by a margin of 1,500 votes in the adjoining Cleveland area 11th District. He defeated Democratic incumbent Robert E. Cook.

Like any mother, Mrs. Bolton is proud of her son, youngest of her three boys. "Naturally, I'm very happy that he'll be back in the House again and that we'll be together," she said. "We don't consult at all and never have on the way we vote."

Mrs. Bolton will be the senior GOP member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee — an assignment she feels will keep her jumping.

"With a busy session coming up, I don't know how much I'll be able to see my son, but we will be working in the same city at least and should get together more than we have in Ohio," she said.

Bolton had practiced some law and published the Dover (Ohio) Daily Reporter and the West Lake County News-Herald of nearby Willoughby until he announced his candidacy eight months ago.

His heart condition has completely healed, Bolton said. "I'm in excellent shape, except for the strains of the campaign, and ready to go," he added.

His interests lie in economic affairs, Bolton said.

"Mother is much more internationally minded. There is some difference in our thinking, but I wouldn't want to say I'm more of a conservative or that she is more liberal. It's a little hard to define."

Mrs. Bolton, often called the richest woman in Congress, was married in 1907 to Rep. Chester C. Bolton. When he died in October 1939, his wife won his seat in a special election. Her latest triumph was by a better than 2-1 margin.

Her vitality amazes younger colleagues. She disclosed on her 75th birthday that she often started her day with yoga exercises which included standing on her head.

WITHIN FEW YEARS

U.S. Plans Moon Spacecraft Tests

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the not too distant future, a glass-domed contraption resembling a giant bug will come down from the sky and land on the desert outside White Sands, N. M.

The spacecraft will not be from another planet. It will carry a couple of U. S. astronauts making a test of a vehicle they hope to take to the moon.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) announced this week that it was negotiating a $350 million contract with the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp. to develop the craft. Actual tests will take place in the next three or four years.

Sometime before 1970 and possibly as early as 1964, a three-man Apollo rocket will be launched from earth into orbit around the moon. There, with two American astronauts aboard, the moon bug will detach itself from the mother ship.

It will spiral down towards the moon's surface and, with retro-rockets blaxing, hover in space until its pilots have picked a landing spot. Then it will ease down to a gentle landing on its skid-like legs and sit quietly until the explorers are ready to blast off.

With the mission finished, the two-man team will rendezvous in space with the mother craft and go back aboard. Leaving the moon bug in the moon's gravitaitonal pull, the explorers then will rocket home to earth.

But long before this can be done, the Apollo spacecraft and its lunar landing bug must go through exhaustive tests at White Sands.

A rocket called Little Joe 2 will power Apollo models into up-and-down flights to test their sturdiness, their pilot escape equipment and the parachute systems for bringing them safely back to earth.

The Apollo craft which eventually goes to the moon will consist of a five-ton "command" section, a 25-ton part carrying supplies and propulsion equipment and the 12-ton bug.

White House Waging War On Starlings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House confirmed Friday what anyone in the neighborhood with jumpy nerves already knew. It's waging a war against starlings with an electronic wailing machine.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger finally provided an official explanation of what all that noise from a tree on the White House grounds is for. It's for the birds.

The fact that the White House is trying to overcome a starling problem became known unofficially several days ago. Word didn't leak out. It screeched out from a loudspeaker struck in a high fork of a tree just off Pennsylvania Avenue.

Under persistent questioning by newsmen, Salinger disclosed the details.

"We have had a problem for some time with starlings who have created a nuisance in front of the White House," Salinger said.

"By playing a record of a distressed starling, we are attempting to discourage other starlings from invading the premises."

Salinger emphasized that the problem had burdened Republican as well as Democratic administrations.

The distress call of a starling, he confided, was recorded on tape by some ornithologist in the National Park Service.

White House police play the tape in one of the guard houses on Pennsylvania Avenue. The machine is hooked up with the loudspeaker which police ordinarily use to direct traffic to and from the front door of the executive mansion when large social gatherings are held.

The sound, amplified many times, is a distressingly high-pitched wail that would scare off a human if not a starling. And Salinger said it is working well on the birds.

Someone wanted to know why other starlings flee when they hear an SOS from one of their brethren. It seems that starlings are really chicken.

"They go away and don't come near the area," Salinger said.

Injured Couple Still Serious After Accident

Delbert Davis, 29, and his wife, Lola Mae, 25, West Monroe residents, remained in serious condition Friday night as a result of injuries suffered in a car-truck collision Wednesday.

The Davis' five-month-old daughter, Linda Sue, was killed in the accident.

Their other two children were hospitalized with injuries but are expected to be released today from St. Francis Hospital. They are Rene, 2, and Rickey, 4.

Davis was in a semi - conscious condition Friday but was thought to be improving. Mrs. Davis' condition also was believed to be slightly improved. She is suffering from head injuries, broken jaw, broken arm, crushed pelvis, internal injuries and two severed tendrons in her right hand.

Funeral services for Linda Sue will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Luna Methodist Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery, under the direction of Hixson Brothers Funeral Home.

The accident occurred Wednesday about 3 p.m. when the small foreign car in which the Davis family was riding was in collision with a truck driven by Henry Anders, 57, of Chatham at Natchitoches Road and Jewel Street. Anders was charged with negligent homicide, negligent injury and improper brakes.

India Weapons Airlift To End

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. airlift of arms urgently required by India to repel Chinese Communist invaders is expected to be completed by next Monday.

Defense Department authorities making this known Friday, said India has not yet submitted any new requests for arms from the United States. It was indicated, however, that if such a request is made, the airlift may be extended.

The value of light infantry weapons, ammunition and transport and communications equipment which began pouring into Indian bases one week ago is estimated to be around $5 million.

South Viet Nam Ends Relations With Laotians

SAIGON, Viet Nam (UPI)—The government of South Viet Nam has broken relations with Laos because of the Laotian coalition government's recognition of Communist North Viet Nam, it was announced Friday.

A government communique said that the Vietnamese embassy in the Laotian capital of Vientiane "ceased to function" as of Thursday when the North Vietnamese ambassador presented his credentials to King Savang Vathana.

Diplomats here explained this was tantamount to a break of relations, and there is no possibility South Viet Nam will retain a consulate in Laos.

South Viet Nam became the second nation to sever relations with Laos following Laotian recognition of communist regimes. Nationalist China broke when Laos recognized Communist China.

The Saigon government is negotiating with Japan to have that nation represent South Vietnamese interests in Laos, where there are 50,000 citizens of South Viet Nam.

Gov. Andersen In Slender Win

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Two remote northwoods precincts, the last to report, Friday night gave Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen a 26-3 vote margin in his race for re-election with Democratic Lt. Gov. Karl Rolvaag.

Despite this gain, a 100-vote error uncovered in a southern county pared Andersen's margin to a meager 51.

Sen. Goldwater Speaks Highly Of Rockefeller

SANTA CLARA, Calif. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona surveyed the field Friday of 1964 Republican presidential possibilities and spoke highly of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, usually viewed as a liberal.

"Rockefeller is much closer to the conservatives than most conservatives want to admit," Goldwater said in an interview.

He said Michigan's Gov.-elect George Romney has no political philosophy and added "Romney ran outside the party organization. One Eisenhower in a decade is enough."

He sees Pennsylvania Gov.-elect William Scranton, whom he regards as a fellow conservative, as a vice-presidential candidate in 1964.

Of himself as a presidential possibility, Goldwater said simply, "I'm not running."

Goldwater spoke at the dedication of the new $1-million James Dunne Residence Hall at the University of Santa Clara and received the honorary degree of doctor of letters.

Tension Mounts On Plebiscite Issue In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—New political tension mounted in Brazil Friday with pro and anti-government factions mustering strength for a showdown on alleged official efforts to cancel a scheduled Jan. 6 plebiscite on the country's future political status.

Former President Juscelino Kubitschek said he will "fight with all means possible" any government attempt to cancel the plebiscite in which the nation will decide whether to continue the present parliamentary system or return to the presidential system.

President Joao Goulart met with his cabinet to discuss the scheduled plebiscite. Earlier, a public statement by Justice Minister Joao Mangabeira said the plebiscite should be cancelled because it would "cost too much."

Previous estimates indicated the vote will cost approximately $2 million.

Some observers speculated that Goulart's opposition to the plebiscite is based on fear that a small voter turnout would not suffice to return the country to the presidential form of government, a fight which he has carried out incessantly for the past 14 months.

FBI Keeping Secret Group Under Watch

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government investigators have been alerted to a new secret society bent on discouraging James H. Meredith's continued studies at the University of Mississippi, informed sources said Friday.

These sources said the FBI is maintaining a close watch on the group.

They said it is composed mainly of students opposing Meredith's presence as the first known Negro student in the history of the university at Oxford, Miss.

One government source said that some administration officials had proposed that the FBI infiltrate the underground organization but the agency had balked at the idea.

The FBI declined to comment on its role in any surveillance of the organization. But it was understood that the investigative agency had based its refusal to plant one of its members in the secret society on an expressed reluctance to extend such undercover activities to a university campus. It was said FBI officials were concerned about possible criticism on grounds that such a move would be a violation of academic freedom and might be resented by university officials.

Edwin Guthman, Justice Department information officer, said he had heard reports about an underground segregation group at the university, but he discounted reports that its members had vowed to inflict bodily injury upon Meredith himself.

Justice Department officials said also Meredith's abrupt departure from the university Friday resulted from his desire to ease the stress under which he has been during much of his five-week stay there.

"He usually leaves on Friday for the weekend, anyway," said Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach. "This week he just decided to leave a day earlier. He's been under some tension and I think it's understandable that he might want to get away a little earlier this week."

HOWARD DECLARES

Survival Depends On Each Individual

Survival in case of a nuclear attack "really depends on the individual citizen," Mayor W. L. Howard said Friday, pointing out that it would be "utterly impossible" for any city to provide adequate shelter protection

"Since the Cuban crisis, numerous citizens have asked us about our survival plans,' Howard said. "In my opinion, we have adequate warning systems, but survival in the field of shelter protection is really up to the individual citizen."

He noted that several buildings had been marked by the Civil Defense as shelters in case of an emergency, but added that the buildings would not take care of all citizens in Monroe.

"We have had plans made for community shelters, but in view of the cost it would be utterly impossible for any city to provide adequate shelter protection," Howard said.

He explained that Monroe has two types of warning systems—a permanent system that operates on electricity and a mobile system under which police cars and fire department vehicles would patrol the town with their sirens on.

"The permanent system is not the best, since a power failure would knock it out,' Howard explained. "But I think our mobile system is adequate.'

He said each city vehicle has been assigned an area to patrol in case of an emergency.

"Our vehicles would be in touch with the Civil Defense, sheriff's department, and the state police," he said. "On the question of schools, the Civil Defense state headquarters would relay information to the school officials who then would decide whether classes would be dismissed.'

Howard noted that in case of an emergency, citizens, when hearing the sirens, should tune in on the local conelrad radio system for information and instructions.

"All of our city crews are included in the Civil Defense units and can be alerted on a few minutes notice," he explained.

But Howard added, "It really depends on the citizens."

Traffic Cases Dominate In City Courts

Traffic violations dominated city court dockets Friday with city Judge John McCormick hearing 22 cases involving 18 persons in West Monroe and acting Judge James A. Hobbs processing 20 cases in Monroe.

Byrd, 17, 601 S. 8th St., West Monroe, forfeited a bond of $20.50.

Lawerence Tally, 38, of Shreveport, was transferred to Ouachita Parish jail to stand trial in Fourth District Court on a charge of felony theft.

Six cases of disturbing the peace were processed with three persons being fined $25 and costs of 10 days in jail; one being fined $25 and costs of 30 days in jail plus six months in jail and put on suspended probation for a year; another person forfeited a $40 bond; and the other charge was withdrawn.

In Monroe court activity, a 45-year-old Negro, Emmitt Wilson, 204 S. 21st St., Monroe, was given a six month suspended sentence for illegal use of weapon.

Two persons forfeited $25 bonds on reckless driving charges. They are Amos Claude Warner Jr., 1313 Spencer St., Monroe, and John Zoll, 707 College Ave., Monroe.

Four speeding cases were handled with bonds being forfeited on all four. Jerome Clark, 1801 Medra St., Monroe, and Harvey Hendricks, 214 Chickasaw St., West Monroe, both forfeited $15 bonds while $5 bonds were forfeited by Preston Elmore, Negro, 619 Wilson St., Monroe, and Alma F. Reppond, 1602 S. 8th St., Monroe.

Negro Is Given Two Sentences In District Court

A 27-year-old Monroe Negro was sentenced to three years in jail for forgery and given a six month term for theft in Fourth District Court Friday.

The Negro is Joe Davies, 3406 Lauberta St., Monroe. The terms are to run concurrently.

A theft charge against John V. Williams, 29, was dismissed by Judge Mack E. Barham. Williams, 3511 Joe Bill St., West Monroe, had been charged with the theft of a water pump valued at $100. A charge of simple burglary against Williams was continued without date.

Three other persons pleaded guilty to varying charges and were remanded until Nov. 16 for presentence investigation. They are: Phillip Baxter Grose, No. 5 Glendale Dr., Charmingdale, who pleaded guilty to a charge of simple burglary; Leonard White, 21-year-old Negro, 106 DeSiard St., Monroe, who changed his plea to guilty to a charge of theft of money and watches; and Nathanial Smith, 24-year-old Negro, 836 Beverly St., Monroe, who changed his plea to guilty to three counts of simple burglary.

Two persons were sentenced to 10 days in jail on charges of disturbing the peace.

HOWARD DECLARES

Survival Depends On Each Individual

Survival in case of a nuclear attack "really depends on the individual citizen," Mayor W. L. Howard said Friday, pointing out that it would be "utterly impossible" for any city to provide adequate shelter protection

"Since the Cuban crisis, numerous citizens have asked us about our survival plans,' Howard said. "In my opinion, we have adequate warning systems, but survival in the field of shelter protection is really up to the individual citizen."

He noted that several buildings had been marked by the Civil Defense as shelters in case of an emergency, but added that the buildings would not take care of all citizens in Monroe.

"We have had plans made for community shelters, but in view of the cost it would be utterly impossible for any city to provide adequate shelter protection," Howard said.

He explained that Monroe has two types of warning systems—a permanent system that operates on electricity and a mobile system under which police cars and fire department vehicles would patrol the town with their sirens on.

"The permanent system is not the best, since a power failure would knock it out,' Howard explained. "But I think our mobile system is adequate.'

He said each city vehicle has been assigned an area to patrol in case of an emergency.

"Our vehicles would be in touch with the Civil Defense, sheriff's department, and the state police," he said. "On the question of schools, the Civil Defense state headquarters would relay information to the school officials who then would decide whether classes would be dismissed.'

Howard noted that in case of an emergency, citizens, when hearing the sirens, should tune in on the local conelrad radio system for information and instructions.

"All of our city crews are included in the Civil Defense units and can be alerted on a few minutes notice," he explained.

But Howard added, "It really depends on the citizens."

Traffic Cases Dominate In City Courts

Traffic violations dominated city court dockets Friday with city Judge John McCormick hearing 22 cases involving 18 persons in West Monroe and acting Judge James A. Hobbs processing 20 cases in Monroe.

In West Monroe two persons were each fined $150 and court costs or 90 days in jail and given six month suspended sentences and placed on probation for one year on three counts of selling alcoholic beverages to a minor. They are Janice Barmore, 608 N. 3rd St., West Monroe, and Victor W. Smith, 708 Wood St., West Monroe.

Three reckless driving cases were heard. Brenda C. Moore, 19, 109 Fairfield St., West Monroe, was fined $10 with the fine suspended on payment of court costs; Marty T. Brantley, 56, 1913 Pleasant Dr., Bastrop, forfeited $25.50 bond; and Leslie E. Hibbard, 54, 311 Oaklawn Dr., West Monroe, was found not guilty.

Action was taken on four speeding charges. James R. Johnson, 28-year-old Negro, 1610 Bailey St., West Monroe, was fined $20 and costs, and Margaret E. Cobb, 19, 3004 N. 8th St., West Monroe, was fined $20.50. Thomas D. Jackson, 19, 2800 Jersey St., West Monroe, forfeited a $25.50 bond, and Roy E. Byrd, 17, 601 S. 8th St., West Monroe, forfeited a bond of $20.50.

Lawerence Tally, 38, of Shreveport, was transferred to Ouachita Parish jail to stand trial in Fourth District Court on a charge of felony theft.

Six cases of disturbing the peace were processed with three persons being fined $25 and costs of 10 days in jail; one being fined $25 and costs of 30 days in jail plus six months in jail and put on suspended probation for a year; another person forfeited a $40 bond; and the other charge was withdrawn.

In Monroe court activity, a 45-year-old Negro, Emmitt Wilson, 204 S. 21st St., Monroe, was given a six month suspended sentence for illegal use of weapon.

Two persons forfeited $25 bonds on reckless driving charges. They are Amos Claude Warner Jr., 1313 Spencer St., Monroe, and John Zoll, 707 College Ave., Monroe.

Four speeding cases were handled with bonds being forfeited on all four. Jerome Clark, 1801 Medra St., Monroe, and Harvey Hendricks, 214 Chickasaw St., West Monroe, both forfeited $15 bonds while $5 bonds were forfeited by Preston Elmore, Negro, 619 Wilson St., Monroe, and Alma F. Reppond, 1602 S. 8th St., Monroe.
